Important German Base is Captured—Allied Line Now Runs from Pommiers to Soissons—Teutons are Forced to Rush Retreat as French Troops Madly Dash Forward

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

WITH THE FRENCH ARMY IN FRANCE, Aug. 2, 11:30 p.m.—Soissons has been retaken and the valley of the Crise has been crossed. The German Crown Prince's offensive on the Marne has failed as signally as that of Von Kluck in 1914, and the last word is with the Allies.

The Allied line this evening runs from Pommiers to Soissons, thence to Belleu, the valley of the Crise, Cahrise and Ste. Restitue, through the center of the forest of Nesles to the village of the same name and through the center of the forest of Rheims to Lagery, Lhery and Treloy. North of the last-named three places French troops has advanced about another mile to the Bois le Pretre and Theslon. Brouillet is still in the enemy's hands, in the west, and further east, near Rheims, Thillois has been retaken.

The day was one of continued success for the armies of Gens. Mangin, De Goutte and Berthelot. All along the line the Germans have been forced to hurry their retreat, especially on the west and east of the salient. The enemy is completely devastating the country as he retires, carrying out the German policy.

The French are now on the edge of the plateau between the Ourcq and Vesle after an advance which at some places was three miles deep within seven miles of Fismes. The enemy, it now seems, must retire to the Vesle and very probably to the Aisne.

A copy of the Berlin Tageblatt received behind the French lines contains the following article written recently by Herr Hegeler, the war correspondent:

"From the strategical point of view the seven days battle has been a complete failure. Nevertheless, success has been won which I can register today. A new part of France has been conquered. Everywhere are ruined towns, villages and farms. Night up the nights and all day thick clouds of smoke, caused by violent explosions, float over the ravaged cornfields and devastated forests."

WITH THE FRENCH ARMY IN FRANCE, Aug. 2.—The Germans are in retreat on all sides of the salient between the Aisne and the Marne. On the west the French and British troops, continuing their push of Thursday, have reached the valley of the Vesle, a little river which joins the Aisne at Soissons.

The Germans, therefore, have abandoned the whole of the Soissons Plateau between the Coeuvres and Crise Valley.

This ground has been a desperately disputed battlefield for days. It had been swept by the German heavy guns from the rear of the line and from the east, and probably was the hottest portion of the whole battle front.

In the center the French cavalry are in a big woods called the Bois de Nesles, a mile northeast of Fere-en-Tardenois. On the left the troops are in touch with the forests of the Ardre, a little north of Villers Agron.

The Germans, disregarding the military considerations which entailed frank acceptance of defeat and rapid retreat many days in order to spare their men for a new attempt, have been forced to accept the inevitable, and are falling back, probably to the Vesle River.

ON THE FRENCH FRONT IN FRANCE, Aug. 2 (noon.)—The battle on the front north of the Marne resolved itself during last night and this morning into almost a general retirement of the enemy north of the Ourcq, with the Allies pursuing the Germans with the greatest zeal and success.

The town of Hartennes-et-Taux was occupied by the Allies, who also seized the wood lying to the south of this most important place. The French and British in this sector took Contremain and also crossed the Chateau Thierry-Soissons road.

The Germans are burning villages as they retire and destroying everything they come across. The entire battlefield is dotted with conflagrations, some of them of large proportions.

Further east on the line the Allies are within 500 yards of Villers-Agron, and along the line toward Rheims they captured and occupied situated 1500 yards east of Romigny.

Along the center of the front, as well as on the westerly side, German resistance seemed greatly diminished. The Allies pushed through a series of thickets to the north of the road leading from Coussancourt to Coulonges and reached the southern part of Nesle Wood.

The important town of Ville-en-Tardenois, on the easterly side of the Marne salient, has been encircled by the Allied forces. The French are continuing to advance, and have taken additional towns and villages at various parts of the front between Fismes and Rheims.

Huns, Broken, Still Boast Divine Guidance

AMSTERDAM, Aug. 2.—The German newspapers commenting on the beginning of the fifth year of the war speaks with pride of Germany's "shining armor" and "resolve to break the enemy's war will" at all costs. "The Lord has done great things unto us," is a frequent quotation in their reviews of the four war years.

The Cologne Gazette says:

"We have become spare of figure, subdued in mind, hard of face. We all know privation, but Germany is an impregnable stronghold. The question is not whether we shall win, but when we shall win."

The Frankfort Gazette says:

"At the beginning of the war we all ardently wished it might soon be over. Today in Germany the word 'peace' drowns all other sounds. Of all the belligerents none is so ready for peace as we are. But our enemies nourish the murderous self-delusion that with the help of American gold and men, Germany can be forced to bow to their terms."

The newspaper acknowledges that no peace is in sight, and for this blames the United States, "which would not let Germany win." It says that European sentiment is dead, and that only America and Japan stand to win in a material sense. It appears to extract some comfort from predicting the "Union Jack will, in the future, float far below the Stars and Stripes." The paper also declares that Gen. Foch's counter-offensive could never have succeeded to the extent it did without the direct assistance of American forces.

Some newspaper reviews of the fourth year of the war betray disquietude over the grave situation in Russia, as shown by the assassination of Minister Mirbach and Field Marshal Von Eichhorn, the Allied activities in the Murman region and the Czecho-Slovak successes in Eastern Russia. They express fear that these various causes have combined to weaken the Moscow government and are calculated to bring about a struggle against Germany.

The Vossische Zeitung of Berlin remarks that the fourth year of the war was characterized "by the heroic resistance of our armies, but diplomatic failure enabled the Entente to retain the political initiative."

It declares the Brest-Litovsk peace treaty has become a sharp weapon in the hands of hostile propaganda and blames former Foreign Secretary Von Kuehlmann, whose faith in the Bolsheviki produced the situation now facing Germany.

The Frankfurt Zeitung says that the hopes of London, Paris and Washington that Russia will form a new hostile front and give a new turn to the war will not be fulfilled. It admits, however, that it is conceivable changes on the eastern front may compel Germany to take "precautionary measures, greatly increasing the burden of our tasks."

TEUTONS, FLEEING WILDLY, SET MANY VILLAGES ON FIRE

LONDON, Aug. 2.—"The advance on the front of Gen. Mangin's army continues," according to a dispatch from Reuter's correspondent at French headquarters. "In the main battle sector between Hartennes and Taux, on the Soissons-Chateau Thierry road, and Fere-en-Tardenois, we pushed forward along the whole line of ten miles. We occupied Hartennes itself and the wood to the south and brought the line up to Cramaille and Saponay, making an almost straight front from Hartennes to Fere-en-Tardenois.

"In the center we have passed the road running east and west from Ville-en-Tardenois to Coulognes, north of the Ourcq Valley, and are a couple of miles beyond Sergy," the dispatch says. "In the central sector, as is usual when the enemy is retreating, his resistance is feebler than on the flanks. On the eastern flank of the salient our troops have taken the wood a mile east of Romigny, and are within pistol shot of Villers-Agron, on the Ville-en-Tardenois-Coulognes road. Our patrols were able to advance 1000 yards north of Ville-en-Tardenois this morning.

"The Germans are burning villages behind their front as they retire. The effects of the French victory at the Marne and in Champagne and Gen. Foch's counter-offensive between the Aisne and the Marne are now being felt. The enemy, pressed on all sides, and with his communications swept by our guns, has again been forced to give ground.

"He is retreating with reluctance, continually hoping that the effort will prove too much for us, as it has for him.

"But unrelaxing pressure is bringing the results expected, and the Crown Prince's reserves are being exhausted at a quicker rate than ours. The weather is overcast, with showers."

The news from the battle front received up to 1:30 this afternoon shows that the progress of the Allies has been more rapid today, the troops having made an advance of from two to three miles on the whole line between the Ardre River, southwest of Rheims, to the hamlet of Taux, about six and one-fourth miles south of Soissons.

The Germans are burning villages east of the Ourcq behind their lines.

The Allied line now runs one mile north of Ville-en-Tardenois to Romigny, thence to Aougny and Vezilly; south of Coulonges by Fere-Chanteau to Arcy and Droizy and thence to Taux.

Yankees in Bloody Battle on Aisne-Marne Front Smash Forward, Capturing Meuniere Woods and Strategic Positions—Fleeing Foe Feels Wrath of Uncle Sam's Might

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY ON THE AISNE-MARNE FRONT, Aug. 2.—The advance continues with violent and bloody fighting. Meunier Wood has been captured. The French and American troops north of Fere-en-Tardenois advanced simultaneously early Friday, the French occupying Cramaille and Cramoiselle before 7 o'clock and French infantrymen entering Saponay at 8 o'clock. The Americans meantime kept pace with the French through the forest of Nesles.

There were many fires behind the line, the Germans having destroyed ammunition dumps before starting northward. The Allies in this district encountered virtually no resistance.

The French tonight are sleeping in Saponay for the first time in two months.

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY ON THE AISNE-MARNE FRONT, Aug. 2, 7 p.m.—Another jump forward was made today by the French and Americans on the Aisne-Marne front. From one to two miles were gained and with almost no fighting.

Plans had been made to strike hard blows against the resisting German rear, but the German war council evidently had decided that the time was not opportune to fight, for when the Allies moved forward it was only to follow upon the trail of the retreating enemy.

At a few places there were sharp encounters, but they were nothing, as compared with the terrible engagements that previously had been fought, or what was expected.

The French cavalry operated near Dravegny, about two and a half miles north of Coulonges, with the American infantry close behind, while another detachment of mounted French troops opened the way a short distance to the west, with French infantry and American foot troops close up.

The penetration by the French and Americans to the region of Dravegny would place them only a scant eight miles southeast of Fismes, on the railroad line between Soissons and Rheims.

To the westward, the French reached the southern borders of the Loupeigne, Marenil and Aiguisy woods and the French cavalry to the southern borders of the Moines Wood.

Occasional bursts of machine-gun fire challenged the advancing line, but it was apparent early in the movement that the Germans had gone. The stiffest fighting encountered by the Americans was in a little piece of ground east of Chamery, where, according to the German newspapers, the body of Lieut. Quentin Roosevelt was buried after his airplane had been brought down early in the present operations.

Through wheat fields and over wooded trails soaked with the rain that fell almost all day, the Americans moved slowly and cautiously, but almost continuously, over farms and past villages, among them Coulonges and Cohan. To the westward another force of Americans also was moving steadily through and around the Nesle Woods and the rolling country east of the woods. To both the east and west of that part of the line held by the Americans the French were meeting with similar success. Few prisoners were taken during the day. One, a captain, admitted the German artillery had been withdrawn. His story confirmed tales of other prisoners that the Germans were determined to make their next big stand on the Vesle and not the Ardre; and that their movements under way indicated the fortifying of Fismes as the center of the next fixed line of battle.

It is not anticipated that the Germans will withdraw to the Vesle line without renewing their rear guard resistance, and it is expected that the present virtually unopposed advance will end quickly, perhaps with stiff fighting on the higher ground just south of the Ardre, in order to give the Germans more time for getting their artillery and stores across.

With only a slight advance in addition to that of today, the heavy guns of the Allies will be in position to shell Fismes and any part of the line the Germans may determine to stand on could immediately be made uncomfortable.

Although the enemy's retreat on the whole has been successful, and he has been able to get out the greater portions of his armies, observers have witnessed conditions which they believe indicates that the Germans are moving more hastily than they desire. Huge clouds of smoke and dull explosions have come from

Summary of Battle on West Front

(Undated War Review by the Associated Press.)

The crisis in the Allied offensive on the Soissons-Rheims salient apparently has been reached.

French troops have entered the town of Soissons, the western anchor point of what remains of the famous salient, and all along the thirty-six miles of curving battle line from Soissons to Thillois, which lies about three miles west of Rheims, French, Americans and British troops have pushed in the entire enemy front and sent the Germans backward everywhere in retreat.

Over the battle front, the Allies, by quick and forcible methods of onslaught, have deeply indented the German defense line for splendid gains, which seemingly foreshadow the necessity of the eventual retirement of the forces of the German Crown Prince.

OUR GUNS DOMINATE.

The plains behind the northwestern portion of the battle front are dominated by the Allied guns; in the south the French and Americans have negotiated almost all of the hill and forest country and are encroaching perceptibly toward the Fismes railway, while on the east the British and French are almost astride the Rheims-Soissons railway, and have their guns now so placed that the enemy is sure to be sorely tried as he endeavors to press back and gain a haven of refuge along the Vesle River.

Just how far the retreat of the Germans will go cannot at present be forecast, but with the southern line swinging northward in conjunction with that on the east toward the Vesle, and with the French dominating the Aisne eastward from Soissons, it is not improbable that the Germans may be compelled to take refuge north of the Aisne.

MANY TOWNS TAKEN.

Numerous towns and hamlets have been captured by the Allied troops during the latest fighting, and at some points they have advanced from two to three miles. South of Soissons the entire Crise River has been forded by the Allied troops; northeast of Fere-en-Tardenois the Allied line has been pushed well to the west of the region of Grand Rozoy, and the town of Saponay has been taken. In the center the Nesles Wood is being swept clean of German troops by the French cavalry, and American and French troops are pressing the Germans hard north of Sergy and the hamlet of Nesles.

Further eastward, almost to the gates of Rheims, combined forces of British and French everywhere are sorely harassing the enemy. In this latter region, in addition to Thillois, the village of Ville-en-Tardenois is in Allied hands, and the French are on the heels of the Germans two and a half miles north of the Dormans-Rheims highroad over a front of nearly four miles.

Altogether, viewed from the war maps, the situation for the Allied troops is a most promising one for complete success in ridding the Soissons-Rheims salient of the enemy.

TOKIO APPROVES WILSON PLAN TO HELP CZECHS.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

AMSTERDAM, Aug. 2.—An official statement received here from Moscow says that the Archangel frontier has been closed for fourteen days for military reasons.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—Advices received in Washington today concerning the character of the Japanese government's formal response to the plan of action in Siberia proposed by the United States indicate that a complete agreement between the two nations is forthcoming. Until the text of the formal reponse has been received no announcement of the policy agreed upon may be expected from President Wilson or the State Department.

The advices received, while merely outlining the Japanese answer, are sufficiently definite and authentic to afford every expectation that the conclusion of the Japanese-American understanding will not be long delayed.

As a matter of fact it can be stated there has never been any serious disagreement between the two governments over the plan of operations in Siberia advanced by Washington.

The original Japanese answer to the American proposals was in no sense a rejection or even a suggestion for extreme modification of the American terms. It contained observations that required interpretation and this government sought a definite understanding as to every phase of the Japanese view.

CORDIAL RELATIONS.

There is no exaggeration in saying the relations between the United States and Japan are more cordial now than they have been in years. A real entente cordiale exists between Tokio and Washington. The beginning may be said to have been made when Viscount Ishii, the present Japanese Ambassador, came to Washington on special mission last year, and discussed frankly and freely with Secretary Lansing the differences that had served to embarrass the good feeling of the Japanese and the Americans.

Mutual suspicion at that time was dissipated and what occurred then is bearing fruit today in the display of get-together spirit that is showing results in the common desire to win the war through unity of purpose and action.

From the preliminary advices received here there is a general expectation that the text of the Japanese response to the latest American note will be received shortly. The information was so encouraging that it took President Wilson over to the State Department for a conference with Frank L. Polk, the acting Secretary of State. After they had discussed the situation in Mr. Polk's office they went to the office of the Secretary of War and had further conversation with Mr. Baker. When they left Mr. Baker's room and the President walked back with Mr. Polk to the State Department wing where they stood in the corridor for several minutes conversing earnestly.

WILSON'S PLAN.

The plan to which the United States has asked Japan to agree and to which the preliminary advices indicate Japan has agreed, contemplated originally the regeneration of Russia, partly through Joint Japanese and American action, and partly through action by the United States alone. Primarily the proposal was that forces of the Czecho-Slovaks in Siberia, numbering, it is estimated, between 80,000 and 100,000, should be utilized as a basis for driving the Central Powers out of Siberia, where armed organizations of former German and Austrian prisoners of war were making headway and endangering Russian control of that part of what was once the empire of the Czar.

Each government—Japan and the United States—was to send a military force to Vladivostok and hold that place as a base of supplies and operations for the Czecho-Slovaks, to whom the two Allied governments would furnish arms, ammunition, clothing and all necessary supplies to enable them to hold the Trans-Siberian Railway and drive the Teuton forces from Siberia.

Another phase of the plan was that a commission composed of American citizens could go to Siberia and make arrangements with representative Russians for American and Russian co-operation that would, primarily benefit Russia, but in the end would provide for an economic exchange mutually beneficial. This commission would give formal assurances to the people of Siberia that the purposes of the United States government were entirely unselfish and were designed only to re-establish economic and political stability in Russian territory.

Incident to the purely American feature of the policy now about to be formulated officially the governments of Japan and the United States would make a joint declaration explaining that the presence of their troops at Vladivostok had no other significance than to assist the Czecho-Slovaks in the effort to clear Siberia of German and Austrian armed forces and establish order. It is quite probable that the joint declaration will go much further than this in its assurances to the Russian people, but its terms are being guarded carefully.

Great Britain, France and Italy were made parties to the exchanges over the American proposal for joint American and Japanese action, and it is understood that they have given their approval to the policy suggested although they had shown that they desired to go much further than was contemplated by the United States.

Pao Kuei-Ching, the provincial governor at Sei Lung King, has been selected to command the considerable body of Chinese troops which have been gathered in Manchuria, and it is understood that this force will act under the direction of the Japanese commander-in-chief.

Incensed at the German control of Finland, the inhabitants of the Aland Islands, in the Baltic Sea, have dynamited the fortifications on the islands to prevent them becoming a menace to Sweden through German control, according to advices received today through official channels.

DISMANTLE FORTS.

The same advices said the Finnish government had ordered the immediate dismantling of all fortifications on the Baltic coast of Finland except those at Viborg and Helsingfors. This is in accord with the demand made by Germany in the agreement with Finland.

It was explained that, while subjects of Finland, the sympathy of the Aland islanders lies with Sweden, their old mother country, and this led to their drastic action.

The Swedish press, while expressing sympathy with the islands' loyalty to their old ties, censured them for their action, declaring that the razing of the fortifications probably would result in the immediate sending of Finnish or German troops to guard the islands.

Details of the movement of the Allied Ambassadors, including American Ambassador David R. Francis, through Northern Russia, and their treatment by the representatives of the Soviet government, were received today in an official dispatch from France, quoting the Petit Parisien.

The diplomats and their suites reached Archangel from Vologda last Friday, but their arrival was preceded by telegraphic orders from the People's Commissaries to the local Soviet to oppose their installation at Archangel.

"The Soviet of Archangel," said the Petit Parisien, "was presided over by a certain Petrof, who instructed the ambassadors to land at some Western European port. Vainly they demanded the means of communication with their respective governments. Petrof refused to grant them authorization. They then set out in two boats with about sixty refugees for Kandalaska."

BRUTALITY IN UKRAINE.

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 2.—Conditions in the Ukraine before the assassination of Field Marshal Von Eichhorn might have been expected to lead to some such outbreak, judging from the description given of them by Zeta Hoeglund, leader of the Swedish Socialist Left, in an interview in the Politiken of Copenhagen.

Hoeglund had just returned from Russia, and his account is largely a report of conversations which he had with Russians from the Ukraine. They declared, he says, that the Germans there were "living in a little Hades," that guerrilla warfare was constantly in progress, while occasional battles took place, lasting several days. The peasants in one section of the Ukraine have an army estimated at 25,000. These men, he described as filled with hatred for the Germans. The peasants elsewhere are burning their grain and destroying their property rather than have it fall into the hands of the Germans.

The Austrian troops are declared to be at daggers' points with the Germans and to have supplied the peasants with arms, including artillery.

Hoeglund's informants considered those disturbances only a foretaste of what might be expected at harvest time, when the peasants, it was predicted, would do everything possible to prevent the Germans from securing the crops.

SLAYER'S DEATH ASKED.

LONDON, Aug. 2.—Dr. Karl Helfferich, German Ambassador to Russia, has sent a note to Foreign Minister Trotsky demanding stern measures in the search for and punishment of the persons guilty of the murder of Field Marshal Von Eichhorn, the German military commander in the Ukraine, according to advices from the Exchange Telegraph correspondent at Zurich.

Dr. Helfferich demanded likewise, it is stated, the destruction of "the hotbeds of anti-German intrigue in Moscow and Petrograd."

The arrest of Maxim Gorky, the Russian author and revolutionary, has been ordered by an investigating commission of the Soviet government, says an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Copenhagen. The Petrograd correspondent of the Daily Express reports that Gorky's paper has been suppressed permanently.

ADVERTISING SUPERIORITY

The overwhelming and constant advertising lead of The Times over other Los Angeles papers conclusively proves that advertisers consider it the best newspaper.

Again unequivocably demonstrating the choice of advertisers, The Times on Sunday, July 28, 1918, printed 9110 inches of advertising, which is more than the combined amount of the other two local newspapers.

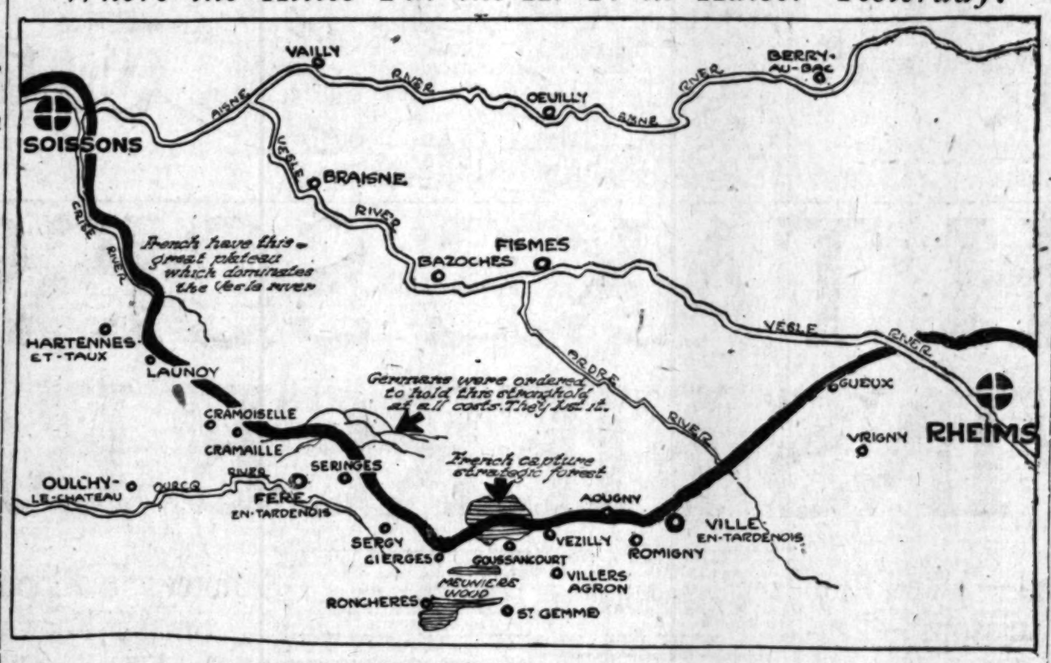
Where the Allies Put the Ki Yi in Kaiser Yesterday.



The newly-captured and dominating Allied positions.

Driving the Germans out of the strong positions in the woods at Goussancourt and up on the hills north of Seringes has resulted in the loss of the great plateau on the banks of the River Crise and south of Soissons. It would seem that the Kaiser's intention to intrench and make a stand on the banks of the Vesle must now be abandoned. This intended position is without doubt under artillery fire from the Allied heights south of Rheims and from the newly-captured commanding plateaus on the Crise. The anniversary of the beginning of the war was handsomely celebrated.

OUR CASUALTIES IN FRANCE.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—Replying to a request that he expedite the lists of American casualties in the fighting on the Soissons-Rheims salient, Gen. Pershing today cabled Secretary Baker that the task of assembling the names of the men was an extremely difficult one because of the limited means of communication in the battle, owing to the fact that American troops are brigaded with French and British units.

Secretary Baker said no estimate of casualties was contained in Gen. Pershing's cablegram. There was nothing to indicate today when the casualties of the present severe fighting would begin to come in.

"I have received a cablegram from Gen. Pershing in regard to reports of casualties," said Mr. Baker. "He points out that our troops are still widely separated, serving in many places, and that our wounded are taken to French and British hospitals as well as our own, causing great difficulty and complication in securing accurate information.

"In addition to this, the troops are separated from their records while in the area of conflict, and must depend upon very inadequate and temporary telegraph lines, which are subject to frequent interruption, and must, for the most part, be devoted entirely to the urgent business of the battle itself.

"Gen. Pershing assures me that he is making every effort to collect casualty lists, have them confirmed and verified and that they will be transmitted promptly."

ARMY CASUALTIES.

The army casualty list today shows:

Killed in action, 42; died of wounds, 48; died of disease, 7; died of accident and other causes, 7; wounded severely, 126; wounded, degree undetermined, 2; missing, 6—Total, 238.

The list includes Private Russ R. Richardson, No. 1442 O'Farrell street, San Francisco, killed in action; Corp. George Beyer, No. 250 South Olive street, Los Angeles, and Private Peter H. Dalporto, San Francisco, severely wounded.

WAR OFFICE STATEMENTS.

PARIS, Aug. 2.—On the battlefield north of the Marne, the French troops during the night continued to press back the Germans farther toward the Vesle, says the official statement from the War Office today.

The statement follows:

"During the night French troops made new progress north of the Marne."

AMERICAN.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—American troops occupied Cierges and advanced beyond the village in Thursday's fighting, Gen. Pershing reported in his communique for yesterday, received tonight by the War Department. Vigorous local actions along the Ourcq were carried out by American forces.

The text of the statement reads as follows:

"Section A. On the line of the Oureq vigorous local action arising from attacks made by our troops and counter-attacks launched by our troops have occurred at several points. We have taken the village of Cierges and advanced beyond it. The situation in this vicinity is otherwise unchanged."

GERMAN.

BERLIN, Aug. 2 (via London.)—The German official communication issued today dealing with the fighting of Thursday, says that the Allies between Soissons and Fere-en-Tardenois suffered complete repulse and failed to gain territory.

British and French tanks which crossed the front German lines and reached the heights north of Beugneux were shot to pieces, according to the report.

The text follows:

"Between Soissons and Fere-en-Tardenois the enemy yesterday continued his useless attacks. Strong artillery duels preceded these attacks, which were directed in the morning against our front on both sides of Villemontoire, and in the afternoon extended as far south as Hartennes. They were repulsed before our lines, sometimes in hand-to-hand fighting. Here the enemy once again suffered complete failure, without any gain in territory.

"Bringing the strongest forces into action, British and French divisions attacked in the early morning from the line north of Grand Rozoy and Fere-en-Tardenois. On both sides of Beugneux their tanks, crossing our front lines, were able to reach the height north of this place. Here our artillery shot them to pieces.

"After bitter fighting the enemy's infantry attacks on the northern slopes of the height were frustrated. Enemy attacks renewed here in the afternoon were sanguinarily repulsed.

"Quiet reigned on the rest of the battle front. In Champagne we have been successful in forefield engagements south of Mont Fichtel and east of Sueppes. Northwest of Perthes in local thrusts we pressed the enemy back out of his front lines, and north of Mesnil repulsed partial attacks by the enemy.

"Yesterday we shot down fourteen enemy airplanes. Our bombing machines were very active during the night, and destroyed, among other things, a big French ammunition depot north of Chalons."

"Between Cramaille and Fere-en-Tardenois attacks by the enemy's infantry in strong force, and tanks, broke down before our line. Strong enemy firing between Fere-en-Tardenois and the Bois Meuniere was followed by infantry attacks only north of Cierges. They were repulsed."

"On the battle front there has been desultory fighting," says the official statement from general headquarters, this evening.

BRITISH.

LONDON, Aug. 2.—The British have carried out raids at Festubert, northwest of Lens, and at Albert, in the Picardy sector, and have captured several prisoners, according to a statement issued by the War Office today. The German artillery, the statement says, has shown increased activity south of the Somme and south of Ypres, while it has been active north of Bethune and east of Hazebrouck, in the Lys sector.

The statement reads:

"A few prisoners were captured by our patrols yesterday in the neighborhood of Festubert.

"During the night, English troops carried out a successful raid north of Albert, capturing sixteen prisoners and a machine gun.

"The hostile artillery has shown somewhat increased activity south of the Somme and south of Ypres, and has been active also north of Bethune and on our front east of Hazebrouck."

The Admiralty air statement issued tonight says:

"A raid was made a dawn July 26 on Nagara, and at night on Galata. A few other raids on these two places were made during the night of July 28. Over half a ton of bombs were dropped and large fires were started. One of our machines failed to return.

"The basin and dock yard at Constantinople was successfully bombed just after midnight July 27, but details have not been received.

"In home waters during the period July 25-31 anti-submarine, hostile aircraft and escort patrols have been maintained. Submarines have been attacked with success.

"More than fifteen tons of bombs have been dropped on objectives of military importance at Zeebrugge, the Bruges docks at Ostend. Enemy shipping also has been bombed, and a direct hit with a 230-pound bomb was obtained on the stern of the leader of four enemy torpedo boat destroyers. Columns of smoke were seen to arise, but the mist obscured further observation.

"Our bombing patrol and escort formations have been attacked by enemy aircraft. Fifteen enemy machines have been destroyed and twelve shot down out of control. Five of our machines have failed to return, one of which is known to have landed in Holland. One of our seaplanes on patrol was shot down in flames. Two of the crew were drowned."

ITALIAN.

ROME, Aug. 2.—The official communication, issued by the War Office today, says:

"There has been moderate artillery activity along the whole front. At Alano our patrols forced enemy advance posts to withdraw, inflicting loss and taking some prisoners. A captive balloon and six hostile airplanes were brought down.

"In Albania, the fighting activity has ceased in the last few days. Advanced lines of our covering troops have progressed nearer the positions of resistance. Yesterday enemy reconnoitering parties were repulsed and thirty-five pri captured."

American Front.

BITTER FIGHTING MARKS EVERY FOOT OF ADVANCE.

LONDON, Aug. 2.—The tide of battle on the American front drifted somewhat eastward on Wednesday, all the most severe fighting occurring in the vicinity of Clerges, says Reuter's correspondent on the American front, telegraphing Thursday evening.

"Clerges," continues the correspondent, "has for some days been a stumbling block to our advance and it is noteworthy that it and the Meuniere Wood formed strong centers of opposition during the first German retreat, from the Marne.

"Clerges itself is unoccupied by either side, neither having any wish to be in there, for the village is in a deep cup in which the gas lies ten feet deep. So it remains and so it will remain while the still summer weather lasts—a village of the dead of dead cats, rats and mice, with all the herbs and flowers that have missed it burnt and blighted.

"Meanwhile the battle circles about it on the surrounding hills, the Americans fighting towards it up the Ourcq Valley and over the high ground north of Roncheres, and down from the hills near Sergy, while the Germans, after filling the house with gas, illustrated, from the route to the north and the east, what could be accomplished in a general way with machine-gun fire.

"Fighting of the most bitter nature marked the American advance east and southeast of Sergy on Thursday says Reuter's correspondent on the American front.

"Before farm, north of Clerges, was the German strong point, and their gun nests about it were concealed cleverly in the ripening wheat.

"The kind of fighting," the correspondent continues, "is slow business but had business for the side that vows to hurry it unless it has an overwhelming power of guns, and as the open fighting guns cannot be concealed as they are for trench attacks.

"Two divisions opposed to the Americans were the Two Hundredth German Division, which seemed to be composed of stout fellows, from various German states, and the Two Hundred and Sixteenth, which was brought from Kemmel, on the British front in Flanders.

"They did not appear to be such good material as the other divisions, the youngster of 19 said he had been a year in service, but that this was his first fight. He avowed with shame that he did not like it. Other prisoners, being asked why the Americans were beating them, replied:

"'The Americans have good food in their stomachs, while the Germans only have poor stuff that no one could fight upon.'

"Not far from this front a somewhat pathetic group was found. There were five Germans and an officer on one side of it and four Americans on the other. It had been a fight to the finish and the last American to survive had thrust his bayonet downward into the earth to signify that he was the last one to see it through.

"Meanwhile the fighting had been proceeding between Sergy and Seringes with much of the old bitterness. The fashion in which the enemy met the American infantry attack showed he had no intention of retiring unless compelled by superior forces.

"Prisoners from the Two Hundred and First Division declare that their orders were to hold the line at all costs, especially at Hill 184 (northwest of Seringes.) They seem to have little doubt that there is no lack of troops behind them."

Yesterday's Franco-British attack on the westerly side of the Marne salient was on a front of five miles and penetrated to a maximum depth of three miles, according to news received today. It resulted in the capture of the entire ridge, which forms the watershed between the Ourcq and the Aisne, the advices indicate.

The French also captured the entire Meuniere Wood, on the line to the west of Goussancourt, at about the center of the salient.

The advance of the Allies along the western side of the salient is described as extremely important—possibly the most important thing the Allies have accomplished since the Germans retired from the Marne.

The importance of the victory lies the fact that the new Allied positions command the whole area to the northward, and take, in flank and rear, the entire western gate through which the Germans have been retiring. This area is a nest of German reserves and field artillery. Goussancourt itself has been taken by the French, the advices add.

The capture of the important ground on the heights to the westerly side of the line also means that the Germans will not be able to retire in an ordinarily leisurely way, and that they probably will have to go beyond the Vesle in their retreat.

The situation is considered as extraordinarily good, being described in the advices as the turning point of the sumer campaign, and possibly of the whole war.

While reports received in this country have not shown the ground for this view, it seems clear that the German retreat must now be hurried if the enemy is to escape a terrible pounding from the Allies' heavy guns.

Reuter's correspondent on the American front telegraphing Thursday night, says:

"There may be some danger of disappointment arising from certain flamboyant accounts of the fighting on the American front, since these give the impression of tremendous effort with little headway. Although no praise is too high for the way the Americans are fighting, that fighting does not suggest hurry on the part of the Allies' command to reach a particular destination.

"If the commander's purpose required speed, more guns would be needed, for by comparison with past fighting, the present operations might be called gunless, so large has the role of the infantry been. It has been bitter as possible, and the Americans have won imperishable laurels, but the scale of fighting would not entitle one to expect greater progress from it."

Notable Advance.

PERILOUS ENEMY POSITION ROUTED IN TRIPLE DRIVE.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, Aug. 2.—Reuter's correspondent with the American army on the Aisne-Marne front, telegraphing Friday at 4 p.m., says:

"After a period of comparative inaction, in which there was nothing but artillery preparation, a notable advance was made yesterday on the west side of the salient. After the usual French action, which cleared the whole of the long plateau known as Butte de Chalmont, the position here had been rather critical. The enemy had practically ringed the butte with a semicircle of fire extending from a queer jumble of terrain on the northwest below Plessier Huleu and along the big buttress of the hills above Grand Rozoy and Cramaille to the formidable promontory eastward of Sapcnay.

"It was plain that, while things remained as they were in the buttes sector, the American advance in the center could only be a provisional affair, since any progress on Seringes would leave the left wing in the air.

"The admirable work of the French and British yesterday eased the situation."

Celebration.

ANOTHER ALLIED VICTORY MARKS WAR ANNIVERSARY.

PARIS, Aug. 2.—Allied troops celebrated the fourth anniversary of the war by a victorious resumption of the offensive. The ground won yesterday north of the Ourcq has considerable value. It is a long spur about 600 feet high between the watershed between the Crise and the Ourcq, and is a valuable observation point.

As a consequence, the Allies can now maneuver safely in the Ourcq region. In addition, they have a view behind the great Hartennes plateau, where the enemy still clings along the Soissons-Chateau Thierry road, and that strong position, difficult of attack frontally, can now be turned from the north through Villemontoire, and from the south by way of Hill 205.

The Allies also gained an important advantage on the left in the capture of Meuniere Wood, by the Americans giving them a position which, according to Henri Bidou, is the keystone of the whole German line in the center.

REASON FOR MALTED MILK GIFT TO ARMY.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—For having on hand more flour than Food Administration regulations permit, the Horlick Malted Milk Company has contributed $50,000 worth of its products to the army and navy, the Food Administration announced today.

BATTLE SUMMARY

previous days, and at some points the Allied troops, particularly the Americans, were enabled to make their way into German positions with virtually no opposition being imposed.

All behind the battle lines the smoke of burning towns is visible, which seemingly would give weight to the prevailing belief in the Allied capitals that the Germans at present are nowhere near the end of their retreat.

Crushing in the German lines north of the Ourcq River, the Allies on Thursday carried their front northeast from their positions between Hartennes and Fere-en-Tardenois.

The exact location of the new line is not given, but it is said that the Allies have established themselves on the high ridges between the Ourcq and the Aisne and dominate the whole western section of the battle area.

The attack, over a five-mile front, penetrated to an extreme depth of three miles. It was reported Thursday night that the Allies are within five miles of Bazoches, an important German railroad center on the Vesle River, which agrees with this morning's report of the advance, to the northeast of Beugneux, the approximate center of the line of attack on Thursday.

Farther east and south, the Allies have captured the village of Cierges, after a sanguinary struggle.

In the center, Goussancourt has been captured and the northern edges of Meunigre Wood have been cleared of Germans. This marks an advance of a mile and three-quarters. Nothing is said of the fate of the Germans at St. Gemme, at the tip of the salient, but it is assumed that they have retreated.

Farther toward Rheims, dispatches indicate that the important town of Ville-en-Tardenois has been surrounded by the Allied advance.

Advices reaching London says the success of the Allies on the western side of the line is the most important accomplishment since the German retreat from the Marne. The view taken is that the advance on Thursday was the turning point of the campaign, and possibly of the whole war.

While reports received in this country have not shown the ground for this view, it seems clear that the German retreat must now be hurried if the enemy is to escape a terrible pounding from the Allies' heavy guns.

Violent combats marked the Allied forward movement. The Germans used every natural advantage and had protected their positions with barbed wire and hundreds of machine guns.

Seven hundred prisoners were captured by the French, British and Americans, bringing the total for the second Marne battle to over 24,000.

It is reported unofficially that the Germans have begun a retreat from Launoy, two miles north of Grand Rozoy.

East and southeast of Fere American and French troops carried the burden of the day as successfully as their comrades to the west.

The Americans, in desperate hand-to-hand fighting, advanced northeastward from Sergy almost to Cambry, and eastward from Sergy to the Meuniere Wood, the northern part of which they occupied. French troops gained Cierges, west of Meuniere Wood, and pressed on, capturing the entire wood. A line drawn eastward from Cramaille, held by the French, leaves St. Gemme, the apex of the V salient, east of Fere six miles to the south. Thus the Germans would have to retire a maximum of six miles to place their line east of Fere on a horizontal with that to the west.

Notwithstanding this resistance the Allies continue to progress in the center of the pocket. Gen. Foch's policy seems to be to hammer at vulnerable points and thus ease the way for gains on adjacent sectors.

Only the artillery has been active elsewhere on the western front, the Germans seemingly paying all their attention to the Marne battlefield. The aerial fighting on the British front has been heavy for the past few days. Wednesday British airmen accounted for thirty-five enemy machines, twenty-six of which were destroyed. The British lost four.

The British are continuing their raids on the Germans in France and Flanders and the Germans at last accounts were heavily bombarding the British south of the Somme and near Ypres.

LEAP FROM BURNING PLANE KILLS FLYER.

DALLAS, Aug. 2.—Lieut. Robinson E. Bidwell, a flying instructor at Love Field, whose parents reside at Red Bluff, Cal., was killed today at Rylie, nine miles south of Dallas, when his airplane burst into flames at an altitude of about 2000 feet and fell. When about 500 feet from earth Lieut. Bidwell, who was flying solo, jumped from his plane and was killed by the fall.

Lieut. Bidwell came to Dallas about a month ago. His was the third fatality among Love Field aviators since the field was established more than a year ago.

OUR MEN SWEEP ALL FROM PATH.

St. Gille, on the Ardre, a short distance south of Fismes, and other places near the Allied front. These told of the destruction of big ammunition dumps. Fires also are visible at eight or ten places, even as far as Fismes. That they had been started by the Germans seems obvious, since no Allied shells had reached these places during the day.

The Americans expected to find the enemy prepared for a bitter fight, but when they swung northward from their positions in the line, after brief artillery preparation, to which there was no reply, all was silence in front of them.

SINGLE FILE.

The skirmish line even was abandoned, and the men were enabled to proceed single file through such wheat fields and clumps of woods as they had known at home. During the rarest of intervals there was a spattering of rifle fire or machine-gun fire, which served to check the line for the few minutes that was required to silence the enemy gunners.

Three enemy airplanes were officially announced as having been downed today. Three other victories were achieved, and it is expected that they will be confirmed shortly.

American bombing planes successfully raided Conflans Thursday night.

Lieut. David E. Putnam of Newton, Mass., scored another apparent victory by driving down a German enemy biplane which he attacked from behind. All the shots from Lieut. Putnam's machine gun appeared to have penetrated the enemy machine, but its destruction has not yet been confirmed.

BARBED WIRE.

The Allied troops continued yesterday to encounter barbed wires. Between Seringes and Sergy there were woven fields of wire entanglements. At creek crossings and in the valleys the German machine gunners held their commanding positions until the heavy guns of the French and Americans blasted a way through the wire and ousted the enemy from his positions.

Some of the enemy machine gunners stuck to their posts under terrific fire till they were killed.

The American heavy artillery commands the village of Chamery, northeast of Sergy, the Americans having wrested the hill beyond the last-named village from the Germans in a battle lasting for hours. The lines swayed back and fourth many times, but the Americans eventually pushed the Germans back.

OPEN FIGHTING.

This fighting was in the open and the American infantrymen showed great courage.

To the north of Cierges the Americans also advanced their lines. The fight began early Thursday for the possession of a farm from which the Americans swept away the Germans.

North of Sergy the Americans crossed wheat fields that had been planted by French peasants, the crop of which had been partially garnered by the Germans. What remained of the wheat was recovered by the Americans.

There was much aerial activity throughout Thursday. The Germans sent out large numbers of aviators, who appeared to be determined to protect the forests from the Allied airmen. There were numerous battles in the air.

MARNE CATASTROPHE DEMORALIZES HUNS.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—The morale of the German people has been greatly shaken by the Allies' successes on the Marne, even German officers showing the effects of demoralization, an official cablegram from Paris today declared. The intervention of the American Army particularly, has enraged the German officers, evidence of it being shown in a new outbreak of barbarity in the form of orders to the troops to shoot down enemy forces attempting to bury their dead or recover their wounded under the protection of the Red Cross.

"Letters found on German soldiers coming from the rear clearly show that the morale of the German people is seriously affected by our success," says the Paris message. "The thing that particularly struck those who questioned these prisoners was that the officers themselves are demoralized. This is something new for the Teuton officer, who had never up to now lost his arrogance.

"The German nation is experiencing a feeling of bitterness against the high command, which had announced that the French reserves were already exhausted last spring. In Germany people do not speak about the American intervention, but when German officers are questioned about the Americans in the battle they no longer restrain their anger. This anger manifests itself in a recrudescence sometimes of barbarism. For example, a German battalion order, dated July, 1918, found on a prisoner, says: "On no pretext whatsoever should the enemy be allowed to bury his dead or pick up his wounded in No Man's Land under the protection of the Red Cross. If the enemy should still attempt to do so, a warning shot must be fired. If this shot has no effect, the enemy must immediately be riddled with bullets. We need the enemy dead and wounded, not only for the purpose of identification, but also to reduce his reserves of human material by the capture of his wounded."

"This order has been carried out by a German regiment in the Arfusee sector, where, for instance, the soldiers fired on our stretcher-bearers.

"Here is, further, a German order dated June 20, which tells its own story of the difficulties experienced by our enemies on the success of aviation:

"'The increased difficulties which are being experienced in procuring the necessary materials for aviation purposes force us to be sparing with our machines. In order to meet this difficulty our airplanes will only be employed for carrying out operations of vital importance in the battle. Keeping the machines in the air longer than is absolutely necessary must be avoided.'"

Our Offensive.

ENEMY FRONT COLLAPSES; ALLIES OCCUPY SOISSONS.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—The collapse of the German defensive positions just north of the Ourcq, forced by the dash of American troops in the center and the brilliant French and British flank operations, is sweeping the enemy out of the Aisne-Marne salient. The rush came so quickly it was difficult for army officials here to appraise the extent of the victory.

There was a strong possibility the Germans would be unable to hold the Vesle line, toward which they are hastening, and would be driven to the heights north of the Aisne.

Tonight's official report from Paris carried the most startling message in several days. Soissons, the key of the German right flank in the whole Aisne-Marne position, was again in French hands.

At the same time the brief announcement that Thillois, west of Rheims, had been taken shows that the jaws of the great trap created by Gen. Foch at last had begun to close.

The re-entry of Soissons is noteworthy.

LOST LAST MAY.

The French were forced out of the city, the largest on that sector of the front, in the first German assault on the Chemin des Dames last May. Its capture by the enemy was a long stride on the road to Paris, a stride that was in fact definitely checked only when the Germans met American troops northwest of Chateau Thierry weeks later, and were halted in their tracks and buried back. To many officials here, the little stretch of line, where the first two American divisions came into action below the Villers-Cotterets Forest, will mark the German high-water mark.

Of greater military significance in tonight's report, however, is the advance of the other jaw of the trap at Thillois. This was taken to mean the French are pushing in to the north and west of Rheims an advance that may well serve to force the enemy to continue his hurried withdrawal to the Aisne without a chance to stand along the Vesle. The left flank of his line at the Vesle is in danger of being turned before his forces south of that river reach it.

If the advance of the French on this line continues, it may well become a race for the Aisne, with the enemy forced to abandon heavy material in a desperate attempt to get his forces in line beyond the river before they are cut off. The picture of a struggle to the death between the two armies drawn by Gen. March recently is being revised sharply.

The greatest value seen by many officials in all that has happened since the counter-blow was launched is that a precedent of victory on the western front has been established. It has been fully demonstrated already that the enemy can be fought offensively, and there are many signs that his punishment is just beginning. Gen. Foch holds the initiative firmly and is master of the situation. He can choose now the time and place to fight, for the enemy is compelled to act on the defensive, and to give ground to save his forces from annihilation.

ENEMY PUTS BARRAGE OVER LORRAINE LINE.

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN FRANCE, Aug. 2.—In Lorraine the enemy put over a barrage at midnight last night, but did not follow it up with an infantry attack, as they did in Alsace, on the previous night, during which eleven Germans succeeded in getting through the American wire, eight of them into the trenches, where one was killed.

During the preliminary bombardment the enemy used a heavy concentration of guns and trench mortars, shooting all kinds of shells, including gas projectiles. An attempted raid at another point broke down altogether.

BRITISH ACE MISSING.

LONDON, Aug. 2.—Maj. Edward Mannock, one of England's most successful flying men, who had fifty-eight German machines to his credit up to a month ago, is missing, according to the Evening Standard. Maj. Mannock was last seen fighting over the German lines July 20, when his machine was observed to fall in flames.

WANT TO GO HOME, SOUTH OF BETHUNE.

BY H. W. NEVINSON.

[ATLANTIC CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]
[Copyright.]

WAR CORRESPONDENTS' HEADQUARTERS, Aug. 2.—I have visited the flat and dreary country of the coal-mining district south of Bethune, and the lines near the old scenes of fighting, near Loos and the Hohenzollern redoubt. Most of its pits and rather squalid mining towns are deserted, but the inhabitants are with difficulty prevented from returning to their homes no matter how much ruined and exposed to perpetual danger from bombs and shells, with characteristic French passion for thrift. There is no fruit, but the wheat harvest is exceptionally fine and only needs labor, which perhaps will be supplied by labor battalions and similar means if the situation remains quiet.

The only significant incident has been the visit of the Maharjah of Patiala to Gen. Birdwood, Gen. Jacob and other officers who have seen service in India. He was welcomed equally as a sportsman and as a conspicuous representative of the Indian native government.

Whenever this matter can be adjusted so that he can do so, he intends to return to Washington to report to the War Department.

TOBACCO TAXES TO BE DOUBLE.

House Committee Expects to Raise $340,000,000.

Action Independent of Present Levy on Makers.

Danger of Delay Past; Bill to be Ready on Time.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—Heavy increases in the present war tax on tobacco, cigars and cigarettes were agreed to today by the House Ways and Means Committee as part of the new $8,000,000,000 revenue bill. The tax imposes three times the existing rates on some items of the schedule and is expected to raise approximately $340,000,000, in comparison with the present $163,000,000 revenue from tobacco.

Members of the committee today said all danger of delay is over and the bill will be in form to report when the House reassembles on August 19. The committee went back today to the income surtax paragraphs, and, while there was no definite action, it was evident there will be heavy increases in surtax rates.

There was also some discussion of two plans to superimpose a strictly war profits tax on the excess profits tax, one of the plans being for a complete supplemental tax, every dollar of which would be additional to the excess profits revenue, and the other an alternative proposition under which the treasury would impose either the excess profits tax or the war profits tax, but not both of them, the tax to be imposed being that which would bring the larger revenue in each individual case.

Today's action as to war taxes on tobacco was independent of the special license tax on manufacturers of tobacco, in which double the present tax was imposed on the basis of the annual sales.

KITCHIN'S STATEMENT.

Chairman Kitchin made this statement tonight:

"The committee reached the following tentative decision as to the tobacco schedule:

"On cigars weighing not more than three pounds per thousand, tax increased from the present $1 per thousand to $2 per thousand; cigars weighing more than three pounds per thousands and retailing at not more than 4 cents each, increased from $3 to $5 per thousand; cigars retailing at more than 4 cents and not more than 7 cents each, increased from $4 to $10 per thousand; cigars retailing at more than 7 cents each and less than 15 cents each, increase from $6 to $15 per thousand; between 15 and 20 cents each increase from $8 to $20 per thousand, and those retailing at 20 cents or more, increase from $10 to $30 per thousand.

TOBACCO, 12 TO 30 CENTS.

"Cigarettes weighing not more than three pounds per thousand and retailing at less than 2 cents each, increased from $2.05 to $5 per thousand; those of same weight retailing at 2 cents or more, increased from $2.05 to $15 per thousand; those weighing more than three pounds per thousand increased from $4.80 to $10 per thousand.

"Tobacco tax increased from 12 to 30 cents per pound.

"Cigarette and tubes tax doubled.

"Experts estimate that the revenue for the twelve months' period from these tobacco taxes will total $240,000,000, against a present revenue of $168,000,000 from the same source. The committee adjourned until Monday, when the luxury taxes probably will be considered."

The ways and means subcommittee on luxuries held a hearing at which a jewelers' committee contended that by collecting the tax on the basis of sales to the consumer $150,000,000 more might be raised than if imposed on the lesser wholesale price.

VANDERBILT TO HEAD NEW CAMP LEWIS UNIT.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—The American forces in France have reached such high proficiency in the new methods of warfare that they are to furnish instructors for the new units being organized in the United States. No additional instructors from the Allied armies will be asked except possibly in special technical cases.

The War Department has ordered a number of officers back from France to command brigades in the twelve new divisions, the formation of which recently was announced by Gen. March, Chief of Staff.

Among the officers known to have received their orders are Brig.-Gen. Douglas MacArthur, who is to go to Camp Meade, Md., and Brig.-Gen. Cornelius Vanderbilt, who went overseas as a colonel of engineers, to Camp Lewis, Wash.

The Chief of Staff has announced that each new division will be formed around a nucleus of two veteran infantry regiments. The units available in the United States for this purpose have been practically exhausted and it is considered likely that regiments from the first American contingents will be brought home to serve as foundations for later additions to the army.

WITHDRAWS TREASON CASE AGAINST MALVY.

ATTORNEY-GENERAL URGES PUNISHMENT FOR PACIFIST PROPAGANDA.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

PARIS, Aug. 2.—(Havas Agency.) Atty.-Gen. Merillon summed up in the high court of justice today the government's case in the trial of Louis Malvy, former Minister of the Interior in several French Cabinets.

The Attorney-General said Malvy was not a traitor as Leon Daudet, leader of the Royalist Association and editor of L'Action Francaise, had declared, and he contended that the former Interior Minister had really not betrayed his country.

The Attorney-General said he did not wish to compare Malvy either with Bolo Pasha or Duval, director of the Bonnet Rouge, both of whom were shot as traitors, and that he would withdraw the charge of treason in Malvy's case.

Atty.-Gen. Merillon maintained, however, that Malvy was partly responsible for certain mutinies in the French army, which he attributed to pacifist propaganda, and he stated that the former Minister should be punished in this connection.

August 6 is the last day on which initiative petitions may be filed.

WASHINGTON WHEAT YIELD BEATING 1917.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SEATTLE, Aug. 2.—Washington's 1918 wheat crop will total 30,000,000 bushels, an increase of 3,000,000 over last year, Chief Grain Inspector P. J. Sweeny estimated in a statement issued here today.

The Oregon crop was figured at 18,000,000 bushels and the Idaho production at 8,000,000 bushels, thus giving the three States a total of 56,000,000 bushels as compared with the record of 43,000,000 in 1917.

Mr. Sweeny predicted a shortage of hay, oats, and barley in the Northwest. He said there has been a falling off in the Hay acreage.

RUMELY HELD AS HUN AGENT

Germany Sinks Million and Half in Mail, Claim.

Money Paid Indicted Publisher by Broker.

Evidence Disproves Claim Made in Statement.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—The German government "sank" an aggregate of $1,431,700 in its attempt to influence a section of American public opinion through purchase of the New York Evening Mail, Alfred E. Becker, Deputy Attorney-General of New York, announced tonight.

After the arraignment today of Dr. Edward A. Rumely, former publisher of the Mail, and S. Walter Kaufmann, a former director of the Mail and Express company, and one time Counsel of the Germany Embassy in the United States, on Federal indictments growing out of the Mail purchase, Mr. Becker made additional disclosures regarding his investigation.

He said the money which went into the newspaper coincident with and following Rumely's purchase in June, 1915, was paid by Count Von Bernstorff and Dr. Heinrich Albert, commercial attache of the embassy. Payments were made, he said, through Walter Lyon of the Wall-street firm of Lyon, Rendkorf & Co. Dr. Rumely, according to Mr. Becker, gave the German government's representatives notes securing them with the entire capital stock of the Mail and Express company.

ADMITS PAYMENTS.

Mr. Becker said Lyon admitted making the payments to Dr. Rumely, for a commission of $5000 paid him by Kaufmann's law firm. Lyon received the funds in cashier's certificates from various banks in which Von Bernstorff and Albert had deposits.

He testified that he did not know the persons on whose order the banks issued the checks.

Mr. Becker stated that evidence would be submitted to contradict the claim of Dr. Rumely that the funds with which he purchased the Mail were advanced by Herman Sielcken, a wealthy New York coffee merchant, who died in Germany in October, 1917, prior to the date of Rumely's statement of ownership of the Mail to the alien property custodian. In this statement, Rumely listed a note for $100,000 held by Sielcken as the only enemy interest in the newspaper.

Mr. Becker asserted that it was preposterous to ask any one to believe that for this sum Sielcken cancelled an indebtedness of almost $1,500,000 shown by documentary evidence in possession of the authorities to have been incurred by Rumely in his newspaper enterprise.

The Deputy Attorney-General charged that Rumely and Kaufmann, both of whom made statements to the alien property custodian regarding the ownership of the Mail, are liable, if convicted, to ten years' imprisonment under the trading with the Enemy Act, which became a law almost two months before their statements were filed in December, 1917.

"ABSURD," SAYS RUMELY.

"The charge that the Evening Mail was owned by the German government is absurd; it was mine—absolutely mine—and was subject to my sole editorial control," declared Dr. Rumely in a statement tonight denying the charges of perjury and conspiracy to commit perjury in the indictments returned against him.

He referred to Deputy Attorney-General Becker's series of published statements in the case as a "lynching campaign in the newspapers such as this country has probably never before witnessed."

In 1914-1915 Rumely said, his sympathies, particularly in regard to the commercial and food blockade of the Central Empires, were with Germany, "as against England." Never, the former publisher declared, did he uphold those German policies and activities "which we're now seeking to oppose and crush."

He challenged examination of the news and editorial columns of the Mail, which, he said, have vigorously supported the national policies since America's entrance into the war. He declared his "absolute and aggressive loyalty to the land of my birth," and said that he "had assisted by energy means in my power in the vigorous prosecution of the war, and the defeat of Germany."

RUSHED TO JAIL.

One of Rumely's grievances, his statement indicates, was his experience at the time of his arrest, last month, on a perjury complaint sworn to by the deputy Attorney-General. He was called to Mr. Becker's office "to explain a statement," he asserted, and "kept waiting until 8 o'clock in the evening, when I was arrested, hurried off to jail and told it was too late to get bail until the next day."

In a statement tonight, Kaufman said he had been informed by Rumely's attorneys and later by Sielcken, whom he visited in 1916 at his home in Baden Baden, Germany, that the coffee merchant was Rumely's backer in the purchase of the Mail. The lawyer asserted that he never doubted this information and upon it based his statement to the government that Sielcken's was the only enemy interest.

Kaufman admitted making to Rumely advances of money through Lyon, for Dr. Albert, but said he was told the funds came from Sielcken, in Germany. The transmission of funds ceased, the lawyer asserted, when the United States declared war on Germany.

INDICTED FOR PERJURY.

The indictments charge perjury and conspiracy to commit perjury in connection with statements regarding the ownership of the Evening Mail. The government contends that majority stock of the paper is held by the imperial German government.

Kaufman, according to Assistant United States District Attorney Harper, became associated with the newspaper when it was purchased for the German government. He was a member of the board of directors, and as such made the statement of ownership to Custodian Palmer.

The indictments charge that the stock of the Evening Mail, after the severance of American diplomatic relations with Germany, was in the name of the S. S. McClure Newspaper Corporation. Rumely and Kaufman, it is charged, conspired to conceal the fact that this company was largely owned by the German government. This ownership, the indictments state, existed on October 6, 1917, the date of the passing of the Trading with the Enemy Act.

The money and property which has been taken over by A. Mitchell Palmer, enemy property custodian, has passed the $500,000,000 mark, it was announced here today.

All cash taken over is sent to the Treasury to be invested in Liberty Bonds, and whenever possible, the enemy property is converted into cash, which is similarly invested. On July 31, Mr. Palmer had purchased $42,970,027 worth of the bonds and $2,807,905 more was available at the Treasury for investment in the coming loan.

RUMELY, VIERECK— AND SOME OTHERS.

One by one, the United States secret service gathers them in. It may be a little slow, certainly it is slower than the impatient demands of the nation, but it has the appearance of being deadly sure. And this is comforting to the loyal citizen—though it can hardly be welcome to the gang that sought to capitalize discontent and make a profit out of moral treason.

For "Dr." Edward Rumely and George Sylvester Viereck do not stand alone, except when haled to the cross-examination chamber. All that they did to help the Kaiser has been done by other publishers still at large. For example:

Rumely and Viereck praised Germany and all things German, even while Germany was sinking our ships and blowing up our factories.

So did W. R. Hearst.

Rumely and Viereck mouthed all the Potsdam arguments about the war being forced on Germany.

So did W. R. Hearst.

Rumely and Viereck cursed England by bell, book and candle as the author of the world war and real enemy of America.

So did W. R. Hearst.

So did Hearst.

So did Hearst.

Rumely and Viereck wanted a "vigorous policy" in Mexico that would tie our hands in dealing with the Kaiser.

So did Hearst.

Rumely and Viereck have been proved to be the paid agents of Kaiserism, doing their evil work by and for German gold. One of them has confessed to taking more than $100,000 of Bernstorff's money.

Here the parallel ends. The secret service has not printed its evidence against W. R. Hearst—as yet. But the American people are looking hopefully for further enlightenment.

No man ever waged the anti-patriotic campaign that can be traced through the Hearst papers for honorable reasons. Until the secret service speaks, one cannot say whether Hearst was moved by greed, by rancid jealousy, by yet more rancid ambition, or by some less obvious, but equally vicious, motive. It is to be hoped the doubts of this matter will be cleared away at the earliest possible moment.—[Chicago Evening Journal, July 29.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

GRASS VALLEY, Aug. 2.—Details of how Francis J. Heney opposed the election of President Wilson in 1912 featured the addresses made by Thomas Lee Woolwine, candidate for the straight Democratic nomination for Governor, in Nevada county today. Woolwine not only exposed the various changes in Heney's political record, but claimed that his opponent for the nomination was a Democrat only for political reasons.

Woolwine stated here tonight that he has found very little Heney strength in Central or Northern California.

"I have been in about forty of the counties in the State," Woolwine said, "and I have found a general feeling among the Democrats that this year, when the Democratic party should choose a nominee from its own ranks, there is certainly a strong feeling against considering a man who has become famous largely through his ability to jump into political band wagons."

Woolwine will speak in Auburn, Roseville and Placerville tomorrow. Dan W. McCarmichael, Mayor of Sacramento, is arranging for a big Woolwine meeting there next Monday night.

DRAKE BENEFIT FUND TO GO TO RED CROSS.

MRS. GAVIN WIRES GOLF CONTRIBUTIONS GO FOR AMERICAN AMBULANCES.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 2.—Mrs. William A. Gavin, Metropolitan woman's golf champion, in a telegram received here today, suggested that approximately $9500 obtained here in matches for the benefit of the Drake section sanitaire project, now abandoned, be applied to the purchase of ambulances for the American Red Cross.

Officials of golf clubs under whose auspices Mrs. Gavin played said tonight that disposition of the money would not be made until the contributors had been given an opportunity to decide whether the money should be spent as Mrs. Gavin suggested or returned to the donors.

Mrs. Gavin's message was as follows:

"As developments in connection with the Drake fund since I started on tour have not been satisfactory, I am arranging for all subscriptions to be applied precisely to the same purpose under the auspices of the American Red Cross, or directly through the French Consul.

"Pending this, donations will remain intact, and be refunded unless arrangements made are perfectly satisfactory to all concerned."

OUR MEN PUSH GERMANS BACK IN BLOODY FIGHT.

[ATLANTIC CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.] [Copyright.]

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY, Aug. 2, 9 a.m.—Violent and bloody fighting north of the Ourcq continues between the Americans and picked German divisions, the German command trying desperately to prevent the Americans to advance.

Meanwhile we continue to advance. In the past twenty-four hours we have captured the important Bois de Meuniere and have pressed forward beyond Clerges and on the left pushed our lines up to the edge of the Bois de Nesle.

The capture of the Bois de Meuniere is our most important victory since the Americans forced the Ourcq River passage.

We had a somewhat perilous hold on Clerges, our line there being threatened by the German hold on Hill 200, which lies in the Bois de Clerges to the south of the village. The first thing we did was to strengthen our man-power in Clerges. This done we had the Germans on Hill 200 where we could attack them from the northwest and south. Despite this menace the Boche machine gunners refused the opportunity to withdraw into Meuniere Wood. Every tentative advance of our men was met with violent machine-gun fire.

Holding back the infantry our batteries of 75s shelled the woods on top of the Hill 200 for an hour and a half. Then we charged the hill in Baden Baden, Germany, that the coffee merchant was Rumely's backer in the purchase of the Mail. The lawyer asserted that he never doubted this information and upon it based his statement to the government that Sielcken's was the only enemy interest.

mistaken if they thought we had enough. Shortly after midnight yesterday morning we trained hundreds of guns on the southern end of the woods and sent some thousands of high explosives. At 3:30 o'clock the charge started from the west and from the south of the woods. The Americans moved stealthily, with fixed bayonet until they got into the edge of the woods and then the machine gunners. Then the Indians yelled and the lumberjacks shouted and farm boys cheered. They knew where they could mix it at close range with the Boche, and that is what they wanted.

Their yells could be heard a mile away. They were up against two of the Kaiser's redoubtable divisions, the Two Hundredth Jaegers and the Two Hundred and Sixteenth Reserve Division. They fought with vim and joy. The bayonet is a good weapon against gun nests on the ground floor, but infantrymen, but the German machine gunners in the trees gave a world of trouble. The lads who back home had learned to shoot squirrels from their trailing do good advance work, hiding behind trees and shooting down the monkey fighters. On the ground things went better. The Germans were fresh and the Americans in good trim. Our boys fought like madmen.

FOR REVENGE.

They had lost comrades at the hands of the Germans and they were to avenge them. No quarter was asked or expected. The German band had ceased to play for death, and the Americans never thought of such order. Wounded men who could be hurt were brought back to the dressing stations and stole away to the front back in the fight. One boy from Michigan was found half way back to the battle, where he had to go from loss of blood. A saw a man bring our wounded and all were full of pep and smiling with joy at what they had done.

"We gave 'em hell all right," was the message they had for everyone along their way.

Without much artillery on either side and without gas, the Americans fought the Germans through the woods four kilometers long for nearly seven hours. At 9:30 o'clock we took a position across the northern edge of the woods. The French, on the right, had fought their way up valiantly, and it now looks as if the Boche grasp was broken on the stronghold.

Popular Houston Offi Makes Statement.

Says Money Couldn't B Good Tanlac Did Him

Had Suffered for the F Four Years.

"Money could not buy the Tanlac has done me, and I recommend it for what it has d in my case," said Hon. Andy Anderson of Houston, Tex., ex-Sheriff of Harris county, recently.

Mr. Anderson is unquestionably not only one of the best known, one of the most popular, men ever held public office in the "Lone Star" State. After serving as Deputy Sheriff of Harris county for twelve years, Mr. Anderson was elected Chief of Police of the City of Houston. He had occupied this office only a short time when the Sheriff of Harris county died, and Anderson's friends then persuaded him to make the race for the unexpired term of Sheriff, to which he was easily elected. He was honored with re-election seven different times and served the people in this important office for fifteen consecutive years. Four years ago Mr. Anderson declined re-election and retired to private life. He ever stood among the people of Houston as a large property owner and foremost citizen of this interesting and prosperous city.

"I was in a run-down condition," continued Mr. Anderson, "had no appetite at all and could not sleep at night and never felt like getting up in the morning. I was tired. I had the worst form of indigestion, suffered all the time with gas on my stomach and was continually belching up undigested food. I had to take my coffee without sugar, as when I drank it with sugar I would just belch for hours. I would bloat and swell up like I was poisoned and suffered from severe pains of the worst sort, and nothing seemed to help me, only in a temporary way. I just can't tell you how I did suffer the past four years and up to the time I began taking Tanlac, a few weeks ago.

"When I read the testimonials of some who had been relieved of troubles like mine I just felt that I couldn't make a mistake by taking Tanlac, and it has done more for me than I had expected. I now begin to feel better after taking my first bottle and have just now started my third, and I am a different man already. I sleep like a log, can eat just anything I want without the slightest discomfort afterwards, and am glad to indorse Tanlac for what it does the work, and I am telling all my friends just what I think of it to you. I never felt better in my life than I do since taking Tanlac, and am willing for you to publish my statement and let every suffering man who may wish, benefit by my experience with this great medicine."

Tanlac is sold in Los Angeles at Pasadena and San Diego by the Owl Drug Co., under the personal direction of a special Tanlac representative.—[Advertisement.

Sappy Mixed and Women's Doubles Played.

No less than seven Southern California tennis titles will be settled on the courts of the Hotel Virginia this afternoon. Net fans are terribly wrought up over the titular matches slated for today and a large gallery is expected to kick through with the admission fee, which is turned over to the Red Cross.

The finals of the Junior Singles were solemnized with a befitting amount of squealing and handicapping yesterday afternoon. Bill Hawkes bombing the fond aspirations of Mortimer Brown in three consecutive sets, 6-4, 6-1, 6-3. The latter's open singles, also, were brought to completion, Mrs. Yager appointing Miss Marion Williams, the charming little schoolgirl from La Jolla. Miss Williams, however, has a chance to come back today when she will meet Mary Louise Bates in the finals of the women's open singles.

Every match on the programme promises to be a hummer with seasoned racquet wielders fighting tooth and nail for the highest honors that the south has to offer.

In the veteran Simpson Sinsabaugh was the superior of the famous Tom Bundy at the game of racquets? The burning question is now absorbing the attention of all the tennis enthusiasts since the sprightly Sinsabaugh rose at the breezy hour of 5:30 yesterday morning and mixed a vindictive 6-4, 6-2 set to one Wallace Bates, a youngster from the northern part of the State. It was just Wednesday that Bates, with great glee and gusto, in a match played at the same matutinal hour, trimmed the darlights from Tom Bundy, once the master of them all. Hence the great problem—has Thomas slipped while Simpson has been sipping of the magic nectar of youth and improving his strokes and style of aggressiveness.

After completing the humiliation of Bates in the singles, Sinsabaugh escorted Mrs. Bruce from the sidelines and proceeded to trounce Miss Williams and the said Mr. Bates at mixed doubles by the score of 6-2, 6-4.

A snappy women's doubles was pulled on when Mrs. Bruce and Florence Sutton handed the merry razoo to Mrs. William M. Henry and Mrs. Yager, 6-3, 6-2. The intentions of Mrs. Henry and Mrs. Yager were of the best, but both of these young ladies, especially Mrs. Yager, exhibited a remarkable proclivity for making the ball past the back fence.

TUESDAY'S RESULTS.

Girls' singles—Sinsabaugh (Adelaide Baker, Los Angeles) defeated Rogers (Mary Louise Baker, Los Angeles), 6-4, 6-1; Mrs. Henry (Adelaide Fleming, Bates and Hall) defeated Fleming, Bates and Hall, 6-4, 6-1; Mrs. Henry (Adelaide Fleming, Bates and Hall) defeated Fleming, Bates and Hall, 6-4, 6-2; Bruce and Wagner (Florence Sutton and Ruth Wagner, Los Angeles) defeated Hawkes and Butler, 4-6, 6-4, 6-4.

Boys' singles—Bill Hawkes defeated Mortimer Brown, 6-3, 6-1, 6-3.

SCHEDULE FOR TODAY.

2:00 o'clock—Finals Junior Doubles, Hawkes and Brown vs. Bates and Ballou.

2:30 o'clock—Finals women's singles, Sinsabaugh vs. Miss Mary Louise Baker.

3:00 o'clock—Finals men's singles, Sinsabaugh vs. Bates. Winner to play Miss Mary Louise Baker.

3:30 o'clock—Finals men's doubles, Bruce and Sinsabaugh and Butler and Bates, 6 out of 9 sets.

WESTERN TITLE TENNIS PLAYED.

CHICAGO, Aug. 2.—Mrs. W. J. Bishop of Portland, Or., defeated Miss Dorothy Field of Chicago in the semi-final round of the women's western tennis championship today, winning, 3-6, 7-5, 6-2. The other semi-final will be played tomorrow, Miss Carrie Neely, the present western champion, opposing Miss Marion Leighton.

The only men's match today was the semi-final in doubles, in which Dean Mayo and Ralph Burdick, the western doubles champions for four years, defeated Sam Hardy and Leo A. Campbell, 6-1, 6-4, and 6-4.

REGULATIONS CHANGED.

Considerable personal interest attaches to another recent announcement of the Department of Agriculture which makes the bird-shooting regulations through the Biological Survey. The former Federal law allowing for delaying shooting until October 15 the only feature that the State law did not cover. Now the Federal regulations have been changed to half an hour before, in conformity with the California fish and game laws. Therefore, the Fish and Game Commission's patrol, which is now in enforcing the State laws will be automatically enforcing the Federal law as well, and offenders against these provisions will be liable to prosecution in higher courts, with heavier fines, and thus infractions of the law become a very much more serious matter even than heretofore.

VEITH TO GO BARNSTORMING.

Vance Veith, peerless natatorial star, has received a telegram from Promoter Charlotte Epstein requesting that he and Alleen Allen hasten East to appear in a series of swimming and diving events.

On August 15 the pair will perform at Belmar, N. J., Miss Allen competing for the title from the fifteen-springboard. August 21 and 22 and the local mermaid will appear at Brighton Beach.

NATIONAL LEAGUE MOGULS READY FOR EARLY SERIES.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—The National League baseball season of 1918 will end not later than September 2. Immediately afterward the winning club will participate in a world series with the American League flag winners, providing arrangements for such a contest can be made with the rival major league.

These were the outstanding decisions reached at a special meeting of the National League club presidents held in this city late today. The conference, which had been originally set for tomorrow, was advanced twenty-four hours in order that the senior organization might be in a position to present its views to the American League magnates, who are scheduled to meet in Cleveland Saturday.

INTERLEAGUE CONFERENCE.

President Dreyfus of the Pittsburgh club, a member of the National League Schedule Committee, will leave tonight for Cleveland, where he will confer with the American League officials, who meet there tomorrow. Mr. Dreyfus has full power to act for the National League in regard to any schedule readjustment.

The wording of the National League resolution is such that the pennant season may be ended considerably in advance of September 2 in case it is necessary to complete the world series by the end of the present month.

MOMENTOUS EVENT SOON.

Reports from American League officials indicate that this is the desire of the majority of the club owners. The post-season championship series may be staged on or about August 20.

Should both leagues agree to begin the series on August 20, it is probable the regular pennant season will be terminated on Saturday, August 17, and the rival combinations given two days to prepare for the interleague clash. If the present schedules remain unchanged, August 17 would find the eastern National League clubs playing in the West, while the American League contests would be under way on eastern diamonds. Including the results of today's games, Chicago is leading by five and one-half games over the New York team in the National League, and Boston is four and one-half games ahead of Cleveland in the American League.

MAY REGULATE LIMITS.

As yet no further word concerning fixing of limits has been received from Washington. This is a subject in which duck hunters are vitally interested, it having been agreed in California that with the unfair competition of the market-hunter eliminated, the sportsmen of the State could be permitted a twenty-five per day, fifty per week bag, without imperilling the maintenance of ducks and geese, as an attraction to sportsmen of the future.

Driver Tommy Murphy's Grand Circuit string of horses consist of twenty-nine campaigners, of which twenty are trotters and nine pacers.

Dancing will conclude the evening's entertainment.

SOLDIERS MESS UP "LABOR" SANCTUM

BACK FROM WAR, THEY GIVE REBUKE TO SYMPATHY FOR EVADER.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

VANCOUVER (B. C.) Aug. 2.—Angered because approximately 4000 union workers of this city went on a twenty-four-hour strike at noon today as a protest against the recent killing of Albert Goodwin, alleged draft evader, by a dominion officer, a crowd estimated at nearly 400 returned soldiers—officers and men—raided the labor temple here today.

The soldiers broke down some inside doors, secured entrance to the offices and threw books and records into the street.

V. R. Midgley, labor secretary and prominent labor leader, and John Kavanaugh, Socialist leader and former president of the trades council, were taken into the street and made to kiss the Union Jack. Later the soldiers went to near-by drill grounds, where they passed resolutions, giving Vancouver strike leaders two hours to call off the strike or suffer the penalty of being run out of the city.

Earlier in the afternoon the soldiers attempted to operate the street cars, which had been stopped by the strikers, but someone turned off the power.

COMMISSION DOCTORS.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—Adjt.-Gen. McCain announced that commissions were awarded to the following Los Angeles men today:

Dr. Virgil J. McCombs, No. 403 Story Building, and Dr. Harry Meredith Dale, No. 524 South Spring street, captains in the Medical Corps; Dr. Wayne Pierre Harrison, No. 1001 Los Angeles Investment Building, first lieutenant in the Medical Corps.

Norman McLeod Stevenson of No. 3202 Homer street, San Diego, was commissioned today second lieutenant in air service.

MEXICAN REBELS BURN BRIDGE; TROOPS CHASE.

NOGALES (Ariz.) Aug. 2.—A band of about fifty men, said to be followers of Gen. Juan Cabral and Gen. Juan B. Medina, who have been mentioned as the heads of a new revolutionary movement in Northern Mexico, burned a bridge on the line of the Southern Pacific of Mexico about twenty miles south of here last night, according to reports reaching here today.

Gen. Anulfo Gomez, who is in charge of Mexican Federal troops at Nogales, Sonora, on receipt of the report dispatched four trainloads of troops south to quell the uprising.

FLYER KILLED AT SAN DIEGO.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN DIEGO, Aug. 2.—Corp. Carl F. A. Christensen was instantly killed this morning while flying with Lieut. H. F. Cotton in an airplane from the North Island army aviation school. The machine went into a tail spin while over Coronado Tent City band pavilion at a height of 1500 feet and dived into the bay. Christensen was dead when his rescuers reached him. Lieut. Cotton was injured, but will recover. Christensen came here from Norway. The address given by him for emergency requirements was Mrs. Margaret McDonald, Philadelphia.

An hour after the first accident a second airplane fell in a tail spin while flying over Otay Mesa, the second solo station of the North Island army aviation school. Lieut. Clement R. Jacomini, flying instructor, who was with Lieut. H. Miller sustained a broken leg and other injuries. Lieut. Miller was slightly injured.

FISHERMAN VICTIM UNUSUAL ACCIDENT.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SANTA MONICA BEACH, Aug. 2.—Tom Denos, 23 years old, a fisherman of No. 1205½ Ocean Front, is suffering severely at St. Catharine's Hospital with a wrenched back and possible internal injuries as the result of an unusual accident this morning.

The fishing boat belonging to Denos and his brother-in-law, John Poulakis, who lives at the same address, was being lowered from the floor of the concrete municipal pier to the water by the two men, Denos standing in the boat, holding on to the cable and steadying the craft while his partner lowered away with the winch. Suddenly the cable broke, the boat fell into the water, more than thirty feet below, and Denos was left in midair, hanging to the broken strands.

Before he could be rescued from this perilous position, his strength gave out, and he fell, striking the small of his back on the gunwale of the boat. He was rushed to the hospital and was attended by Dr. L. H. Case, who pronounced him seriously injured. An X-ray examination of his condition will be made tomorrow. According to the Santa Monica police, the injured man was warned to keep out of the boat while it was being lowered, but he insisted upon doing so.

HONOLULU SOLDIERS TAKE REST AT KEARNY.

THIRTY-SECOND INFANTRY IS GIVEN CHANCE TO STRETCH LEGS.

CAMP KEARNY, Aug. 2.—Men of the Thirty-second Infantry, who recently arrived here from Honolulu, and who comprise the latest unit to reach the camp, are to have a fairly easy time of it for several days, getting rested from their long sea voyage, but early next week will start on fairly strenuous training. It is expected that nearly every man in the regiment soon will have to act as instructor of recruits to be sent here.

Some of the men of the regiment, now under command of Lieut.-Col. Blantand, were formerly members of the Twenty-first Infantry, now in San Diego, and have served in Hawaii for several years. One of them said today at one of the camp recreation centers that he hardly had seen a white woman since he left California. The men have all been very appreciative of the comforts afforded them at the Y.M.C.A., Knights of Columbus and other camp centers.

New officers are arriving on nearly every train. Among those who came today were Capts. John H. Pettis and W. M. Horne of the Medical Corps.

TO PREVENT EXPORTS NOT WANTED ABROAD.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—Revised procedures for licensing shipments for exportation to or through the United Kingdom, France, Italy and Belgium were issued today by the War Trade Board.

They are designed to carry out the recent agreement reached between the War Industries Board, the Food Administration and the war missions of the Allied governments to prevent the manufacture of articles which may not be exported or which the government of the country of destination does not want imported.

THREE ARE ARRESTED ON CHARGE OF GRAFT.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—E. B. Prasis of Halifax, N. C., a former member of the Corporation Committee of that State, and a leader in North Carolina politics, and two other men, E. J. Joseph and Leon Green, were arrested at a Washington hotel tonight by Federal authorities, charged with conspiring to obtain a contract illegally from the Shipping Board for a New Jersey company. The name of the concern for which the contract was to be obtained was not announced.

ON TO VICTORY BRITAIN'S CRY

Self-Appreciation Mo'd... After Four Years' War.

Moved by Spirit of Su... Resolve and Gratitude.

America Highly Praised ... Dawn of Freedom Seen.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—Unabated resolution to go forward to the ... victory, increasing confidence ... cause America has joined in ... great conflict, and prediction ... complete triumph of the Allied ... were voiced today in a series ... statements from leading Eng... men, on Great Britain's part in ... four years of war, ending Augu... The statements, issued by the ... ish Bureau of Information, ... in part:

By the Earl of Reading, ... Ambassador and high commis... at Washington:

DAWN OF FREEDOM.

"The fourth anniversary of ... entry into the war finds the ... stern and resolute. Success ... verse have been met with the ... unflinching fortitude, and never ... the spirit of the people been ... nor their confidence higher.

"At the outset the navy swept ... sea, and our original British ... some 160,000 strong, withstood ... France and Belgium the mighty ... rush of German millions.—

"In every sphere of war ... the men and women of Britain ... taking an ever-increasing share, ... however long may be the duration ... of the war the British people ... in common with our allies, ... give up the struggle for the free... of mankind.

"Coupled with that spirit of ... resolve which animates every man ... of the community, is the feeling ... very real gratitude to America ... her aid to the Allied cause.

"The day is dawning; already ... bright beams of the sun of liberty ... are piercing and dissipating ... clouds of tyranny and despotism."

AMERICA'S PART.

By Sir Henry Babington Smith, ... assistant commissioner:

"Four years of war have taught ... us hard lessons, but our determination ... remains unshaken; nothing ... be more potent for stealing our ... resolve and strengthening our confidence ... than the knowledge ... America is fighting side by side ... us—America, high in ideals, ... one in action, boundless in ... resources."

TIDE IS TURNING.

By Brig.-Gen. W. A. White, ... manding the British and Canadian ... recruiting mission in the United ... States:

"We rejoice that last year ... ton was with us in this fight in ... and this year she is there with ... men and the guns, so that at ... the tide is turning. Just as the ... of August, 1914, brought the ... consummation of Franco-British ... friendship, so the 4th of July, ... 1918, when the Britons and Americans are fighting together on ... sacred soil of France, may be ... marked as the last word in the ... Anglo-American compact, which ... the best guarantee of a 'peace ... world.'"

DECISIVE STAGE.

By Sir Charles Gordon, chief ... the department of war supplies ... the British war mission:

"Since my arrival in Washington ... about a year ago, I have had ... opportunity as director-general ... war supplies for the British ... ernment of observing at close ... the great preparations for ... which have been made by the ... United States, and have noted ... three stages through which ...

"It may now be said that ... third period has been reached, ... when the unbounded resources ... the United States for carrying ... the war are being quickly developed ... to such a point that all requirements, not only of the United States ... but also of the Allies, will be ... taken care of, putting at the disposal of the military authorities ... France such an army of men and ... supply of war materials as will be ... a determining influence on the event ... of the war."

GOAL VISIBLE.

By British Admiralty official in charge of the Allied oil supply:

"The quiet confidence with which ... Great Britain in 1914 took her ... stand by France and Belgium, and ... stand which honor and duty required—remains unabated.

"Englishmen and Frenchmen ... Italians have been longer at the ... war than Americans, and they ... know the value of morale as well ... of the fighting strength which America is bringing to the contest.

"The way is long yet, but the ... forces are marshaled under a ... generalissimo, the navies are keeping ... the highways of the seas—and ... every man and woman who has ... eye to see, the goal is in view—a ... peace and renowned victory—and ... the after-time of a recreated world."

STATUES THIN, LIKE TROPHIES

Search for Copper Proves German Brazen Figures are Mere Shells.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

AMSTERDAM, July 25.—The search by German military authorities for copper and brass to be used in making munitions, has disclosed that most of the supposedly copper statues of Berlin are nothing but extremely thin metal shells, similar to many of the trophies presented in pre-war days by the Emperor. It has been decided that it will not be worth while to demantle the statues because of the small amount of metal to be obtained.

Blunt, a veteran who has been "over the top" in reality seventeen times, showed how their counterparts in France are repelling a Hun charge, and how, by superior tactics and go-get-'em fighting, the enemy is overcome.

The battle was staged under the direction of Lieut. R. H. Shaw, a Canadian veteran of Ypres, and similar ones will be given twice every day at the Allied exposition. The fighting shows all of the underhand warfare methods in use by the Germans. There is the poison gas, which rolled in great clouds over No Man's Land, and the liquid fire, and the German barbed wire, each barb of which is poisoned, and the sword-edged bayonets. SUNDAY CLOSING ORDINANCE GOES INTO EFFECT TOMORROW.

THE Sunday-closing ordinance will become operative tomorrow morning as a result of the action yesterday of Judge Jackson, who denied a temporary injunction prayed for by Mary Ramsay, a grocery proprietor, and others. Habeas corpus proceedings are expected now to be invoked by opponents of the ordinance following this defeat.

The contention of Judge Jackson was that an injunction is entirely beside the question at issue and that the proper procedure under the premises is to put the ordinance into immediate effect and make a test case in the courts by arresting one or more violators of it.

Mrs. Ramsay conducts a grocery at No. 4718 Central avenue. It was set forth by her attorney, Charles E. Haas, that the ordinance was discriminatory in respect of the different classes of business involved, and that, being based on religious reasons, the law is unconstitutional.

The city was represented by J. E. Stephens and W. P. Mealey, both assistant city attorneys.

In Alley.

LAD CLEARS UP "MURDER;" SHOT CHUM BY ACCIDENT.

THE "murder" mystery presented to the police when the body of Claude Griewank, 13 years old, of No. 127 South Fresno street, was found in an alley back of his home was solved yesterday when Raymond Giddings, 9 years old, Griewank's playmate, confessed to Captain of Detectives Home that he had accidently shot his chum.

An exchange of holsters owned by the two boys led to the tragedy, the police declare. Griewank and the younger boy were back of the former's home, and were taking an automatic pistol from one holster to place it in another. The boys removed the cartridge clip from the gun, but left one shell in the firing chamber. While they were holding the holster and weapon, Giddings accidently pulled the trigger, causing the shell to explode, it is explained.

The case as at first reported to the police appeared to be a murder. The Giddings boy told the officers he was in the house taking a drink of water when he heard the shot. His mother at first substantiated his story, but later helped the police untangle the case.

The bullet which killed Griewank entered his side and pierced the heart, the boy dying instantly. Detectives Beaumont and Roberts were put on the case, and later were joined by Capt. Home and Detective Carl R. Williams. After a long cross-examination at the Boyle Heights station, the boy broke down and told Capt. Home the true story of the accident. He did not realize what happened until his playmate was dead, and then became frightened and tried to hide the facts, the police say. He was not arrested. Griewank's body was taken to Vasper & Harn parlors.

Mrs. Mary A. Smith.

HOLD SERVICES TODAY FOR LATE CLUB WOMAN.

FUNERAL services will be held in the chapel at Hollywood Cemetery at 2 o'clock this afternoon for Mrs. Mary A. Smith, for many years a prominent club and church worker. She died on Thursday at her residence, No. 4631 Kingswell avenue, Hollywood, at the age of 69.

Mrs. Smith was president of the Hollywood Woman's Club seven years ago and was also active in the First Congregational Church, of which she was a charter member and at one time secretary. She had also been secretary of the Friday Morning Club of Los Angeles. While she was connected with the Hollywood organization a stroke of paralysis compelled her to discontinue participation in club and church affairs and confined her to her home. Since that time she had been an invalid.

She was the wife of Calvin W. Smith, an expert on teas and coffees and a veteran in the service of Haas-Baruch & Co. Her daughter died several years ago, but two sons live in Huntington Park and Victorville.

The services today will be conducted by Rev. E. P. Ryland, pastor of the First Congregational Church, with which Mrs. Smith was identified for over thirty years.

PRESIDENT MAY COME IN FALL.

Plans to Visit Southern California in October, Long Beach Hears.

President Wilson may visit Southern California in October, according to word received at Long Beach yesterday from Washington.

The President is said to be considering a trip to the West Coast about October 19, the closing date of the fourth Liberty Loan campaign.

WANTS TO FIGHT.

Federal Official Won't Take Turn-Down as Final, So He will See Secretary of War Baker.

Lyndol L. Young, deputy United States District Attorney, whose effort to serve the country in the present crisis has so far been checkmated by the government, because he is under weight, left yesterday for Washington, D. C., to put the matter straight up to Secretary of War Baker.

Although his physique may not be robust enough to qualify as a soldier carrying a gun and impedimenta weighing seventy pounds, Mr. Young in his patriotic heart thinks there is some place he can serve where he will be of some good in the final round-up of the Boches. He tried to get into the air service, but was turned down, but he will not take two turndowns for a final answer to his patriotic impulses.

LICENSE ATTORNEYS.

The District Court of Appeal yesterday issued licenses to practice to the following applicants, following an examination: Ira J. Stagg, Florence M. Woodhead, Seth I. Colver and Harry Brisacher.

At Seventh and Hill.

PANTAGES TO BUILD A BIG NEW THEATER HERE.

ALEXANDER PANTAGES, proprietor of Pantages Theater here and owner of Pantages Vaudeville Circuit, closed a fifty-year lease yesterday for the site at the northwest corner of Seventh and Hill streets, whereon he will build a magnificent theater building immediately. The new theater site belongs to the Dillon estate.

Plans for the new theater have not yet been drawn and Mr. Pantages states that he has not decided how much money he will put into the improvement, but he says that it will be an imposing structure. He closed the lease for the Dillon site after having considered four or five other prospective locations for several months.

Carl Walker, house manager of Pantages Theater, states that the new theater will be used for the exploitation for vaudeville features of a superior quality. The old Pantages Theater, it is said, is much too small to accommodate the sort of attractions Mr. Pantages expects to bring here, so the circuit owner has decided to build a new house and conduct two enterprises here, each featuring vaudeville.

Street Tragedy.

ONE IS KILLED, ONE MAY DIE AS CAR HITS AUTO.

ONE man received injuries from which he died and another was badly hurt when an automobile driven by Fred Moyton, 44 years old, of No. 641 East Twenty-eighth street, was struck by a Manchester Heights street car at Thirtieth and Main streets late yesterday.

The man fatally injured was George Roehrig, 73 years old, also of No. 641 East Twenty-eighth street, who was in the auto with Moyton. Roehrig received a fractured skull and internal hurts from which he died at the Receiving Hospital. The body was taken to the mortuary of Draper & Dellenbaugh. Moyton is suffering from internal injuries and is in a dangerous condition.

The two were driving north on Main street, and turned west, directly in front of the street car when it reached Thirtieth street, the police say.

The street car was in charge of Motorman J. E. Spencer.

WON'T TELL ABOUT HER CHILDREN; SENT TO JAIL.

FOR refusing to answer questions in regard to her two small children, Mrs. Ethel LaBonte was fined $200 and remanded by Judge Wood yesterday into the custody of the Sheriff until the fine is paid. The court ordered that she must spend one day in jail for each $2 of the fine remaining unpaid.

Mrs. LaBonte was led weeping to jail while her two pretty girls Hazel, 9 years old, and Ruth, aged 7, were given into the custody of her former husband, Andrew P. Kent.

On leaving the courtroom Mrs. LaBonte flashed her eyes defiantly and declared to the attorney that she would prefer to remain in jail rather than pay the fine. The children wept when their mother was ordered away and seemingly wished to accompany her.

Mrs. LaBonte had defiantly told Judge Wood in the morning that she would prefer jail to answering any questions with reference to her children or tell into whose care she had committed them. The court thereupon issued a citation ordering her to produce the children in court in the afternoon, which she did.

When she flatly refused to disclose the name of the person who had the children in charge the court punished her for contempt.

Kent secured a divorce from Mrs. LaBonte several years ago. She married again and he was awarded the custody of the children. Two weeks ago Mr. Kent obtained permission of the court to take the children on a visit to Nebraska. Meanwhile, the mother had secured permission to have them visit her mother. She failed to return them and Kent sued out a writ of habeas corpus directed at Mrs. LaBonte and her mother.

LUMBER PILE IS STOLEN; WARRANT FOR E. RABIN.

WHEN E. Rabin and his big blue automobile come a-rolling across the pathway of Police Officer Henry Dietzen, that officer is going to stop E. Rabin and the big blue automobile and say: "Rabin, come with me." Rabin knows the way to the Police Station.

For a warrant was sworn out yesterday for the arrest of Rabin on what is for him a new charge—lumber stealing. Assistant City Prosecutor L. J. Pendegast prepared the warrant, J. M. Close, a well-known Hollywood real estate operator and builder, swore to it; Judge Frederickson ordered it served, and Officer Dietzen had it in his pocket last night, and he was lying in wait for Rabin.

The warrant sets forth, on information furnished by Mr. Close, that Rabin during three weeks in March carried away, piece by piece, various odds and ends of lumber Mr. Close had on a lot at Normandie and Sunset avenues, Hollywood. The main article mentioned in the warrant is a work bench. Further, Mr. Close charges that Rabin used this lumber to build garages for the tenants of the Normandie courts, of which Rabin is, for the time being, landlord. Foreclosure proceedings have been begun to oust Rabin from these courts, charged with failing to make good the purchase terms. Already one default judgment has been rendered against him, it is stated.

When the case is brought to trial, Mr. Close said yesterday, testimony will be introduced showing that many things had mysteriously disappeared from where they were, and appeared as important parts of the Rabin garages, including one large Coca-Cola sign which today makes an excellent tin roof, he says, for garage No. 3. The telephone company is also in on the garage-building events, Mr. Close says, it appearing that a telephone pole interfered with the automobiles getting in and out of the garage, and witnesses will tell who it was appeared with an ax and ordered the pole cut down. Down it was cut, and it swung there on the wires above until horrified and indignant telephone officials sent post-haste a new telephone pole, which was put in the ground to replace the one cut down.

BAKERS LOSE APPEAL IN ANTI-TRUST PROSECUTION.

Constitutionality of Cartwright Law is Upheld by Higher Court.

IN AN opinion written by Justice James, the District Court of Appeal handed down an opinion yesterday affirming the constitutionality of the Cartwright anti-trust law, and the judgment of conviction secured in Superior Judge Houser's court in the action brought by the people against H. Jevne and other bakers of this city.

The penalty is a fine of $50 to $5000 or imprisonment in the County Jail from six months to one year, or both fine and punishment.

The appellants were H. Jevne Company, Franco-American Baking Company, Davis Standard Bread Company, Pacific Baking Company, United States Baking Company, Faultless Bread Company, J. A. Mackechnie Bread Company, Bradford Baking Company, Miller Baking Company, C. R. Bradford, James W. Costello, George H. Barnes, Gus Litschke, J. A. Mackechnie, Maurice W. Miller, J. W. Davis, R. R. Beamish, L. P. Collette, Joseph Walker, George R. Gordon, J. A. Jevne and S. F. Moses.

The appeal was from the judgments entered in several forms and from an order denying a motion for a new trial. The defendants were charged with having violated the provisions of a law of California which fixes penalties for the doing of acts effecting trade monopolies and acts in restraint of trade.

THEIR DEFENSE.

What is known as the Cartwright law was approved by the Legislature in 1907. In 1909 the Legislature amended the act and inserted provisions which, the appellants contended, so involved the law and so confused the terms of it as to make the act of such indefinite import as to nullify the whole of it.

The decision says: "It appeared from the evidence that the defendants were producers of bread, many of them very large producers—some producing to sell to retailers at wholesale only, some producing to sell at retail only. The charge was that they combined, agreed and conspired to fix the retail price of

DR. FRANCIS IN WAR ACTIVITIES

He Speaks to Ten Thousand American Soldiers.

Then to Assembly of Old Men and Women.

General News of Local Flocks and Shepherds.

Dr. C. H. Woolston of Philadelphia, one of the leading Baptist preachers of America, who has met with wonderful success in his work with children, is to preach tomorrow in the First Baptist Church, No. 727 South Flower street. His morning subject will be "Little Children and the Kingdom of Heaven," and at night he will speak on "A Wonder-working Faith." Dr. Woolston has spoken to more than 1,000,000 children in his special work for them.

News comes from Dr. James A. Francis, pastor of First Baptist Church, who is on leave of absence for overseas Y.M.C.A. work, that he is now speaking to soldiers in Scotland and Ireland, and to British, Australians and New Zealanders back from the trenches for a rest, and American soldiers just arriving, on their way to France. On the Fourth of July he spoke to an audience of 10,000 American soldiers. In a letter received here he says:

"Well, I've had a day today if I never have another one. I slept at this queer little hotel, rose at 7, . . . registered out—something you have to do each time you go from town to town, if you are an alien—got breakfast and ticket for London and then off in company with an Australian, a New Zealander and a Belgian to the big celebration; it was held at —— out of doors in the boxing ring, a perfect July day. There were four short addresses ahead of mine, one by the Mayor of the town wearing his gold chain of office over his shoulders. It is flat and about two inches wide and its links are gold lions. Then came the "American speaker." I had 10,000 American soldiers all seated on the grass in a circle, with probably 300 officers, besides visitors, colonels from Winnipeg, majors from Saskatchewan, etc. Half of those men had only been on English soil thirty-six hours. They were a serious bunch, bronzed with camp life, well set up, lots of big huskies among them; they are the wonder of everybody here. Just imagine having a chance to give a Fourth of July speech to 10,000 American fighters on English soil in the presence of the representatives of five nations. I'll never have another day just like that one.

"The commander invited the whole party to dinner, but alas, I had to catch the train for London and then to ——, where I went to the Town Hall, where I was met by the City Council and a strange assembly—all women and old men. I never got it before what the war was costing England. I spoke for an hour on the meaning of America's entrance into the war. . . . They gave me a great reception at the Town Hall and invited me to come again, which I shall probably not have a chance to do. Just as I was introduced the news came that the submarine that sank the Landovery Castle, the hospital ship, had been sunk."

NEW RABBI.

FOR SINAI CONGREGATION.

Rabbi Moses Rosenthal of Washington Heights Congregation, New York City, has been elected rabbi of Sinai Congregation, Twelfth and Valencia streets, and will take up his work here September 1. Rabbi Rosenthal conducted services here last week and made such an excellent impression that he was on Thursday night selected by the congregation of which Havid Hirah is president.

The new rabbi is 31 years old and one of the youngest rabbis in New York. He is a graduate of the College of the City of New York and of the rabbinical college there. He has been rabbi of the New York congregation for the past four years, where he has been especially active with his wife in work among the young Jewish people, a work which the rabbi and Mrs. Rosenthal will continue here.

The congregation has purchased a lot adjoining its present synagogue, and will erect there an academy, which will be the center of Jewish spiritual and cultural education. Rabbi Rosenthal will be in charge of this work. The congregation is twelve years old and has a membership of over 200.

IMMANUEL PRESBYTERIAN.

DR. E. P. HILL TO SPEAK.

Dr. Edgar P. Hill of McCormick Theological Seminary is to preach in Immanuel Presbyterian Church, Tenth and Figueroa streets, for the next two Sundays. His subject tomorrow morning will be "One of the Lost Arts," and in the evening he will speak on "The World's Greatest Secret." Dr. Hill for eleven years was pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Portland and for the past twelve years he has had the chair of homiletics in McCormick Seminary.

A CIVIC FORUM.

AIM IS COMMUNITY SERVICE.

The First Congregational Church, No. 841 South Hope street, has established a civic forum to meet every Sunday night with community singing of songs shown on the screen at 7:45 o'clock, platform speeches on vital topics at 8:15 o'clock, and an open forum for questions and three-minute speeches at 9 o'clock.

"Democracy and Efficiency" will be the subject of Prof. C. E. Pugh at tomorrow evening's meeting, and this will be followed by questions, etc. The purpose of the civic forum is to provide popular meetings in the interest of an enlightened democracy, with programmes that will challenge the best thought of the community, arouse the highest emotions and lead to more effective collective action for social righteousness in city, nation and world.

At tomorrow morning's service in this church, Rev. Wallace W. Willard will preach on "Life's Flying Goal," and at 5 o'clock there will be a twilight communion service.

FIRST METHODIST.

DR. WESTHAFER'S SERMONS.

"The New Outlook for Christianity" will be the theme of a sermon by Dr. S. T. Westhafer tomorrow morning in the First Methodist Episcopal Church, Sixth and Hill streets. In the evening the series of patriotic services will continue, and Dr. Westhafer will speak on the subject, "If Christ Came to Los Angeles, Would He Approve of This War or Advocate Peace by Negotiation?" Special patriotic music will be rendered.

MUSICAL FEATURES.

HOLLYWOOD PRESBYTERIAN.

Dr. Marcus P. McClure will preach on the subject of "God In His Sanctuary" tomorrow morning in the First Presbyterian Church of Hollywood, Gower street and Carlos avenue. In the evening there will be a patriotic service, with a sermon by Dr. McClure on the subject of "On the Fields of Honor." The special music will include a solo, "Laddie in Khaki" (Novello,) by Miss Dora Gilbert of Mt. Ida School for Girls, Newton, Mass.; solo, "In Flanders Field" (Hubbard,) by Mrs. J. R. Lohmyer; anthems, "Sing Allelulah Forth" and "God Is Love."

BIBLE INSTITUTE.

CHURCH OF THE OPEN DOOR.

Rev. W. P. Nicholson will preach tomorrow morning to the Church of the Open Door, Bible Institute Auditorium, on the subject of "Discipleship," and in the evening on "Reasons for Delay." Numerous conversions are reported from the evening services which Mr. Nicholson has been conducting. At 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, Rev. Clarence Herbert Woolston, pastor of the East Baptist Church, Philadelphia, will speak on "That Ship of Mine and Its Wonderful Sails," illustrating the address with mechanical effects.

BIOLA HALL.

DAILY NOON PRAYERS.

Some remarkable testimonies are given as to answered prayer at the services that are held daily in Biola Hall, (the old Empress Theater) No. 338 South Spring street. Prayer services are held from 12 to 1 daily for our soldiers, sailors and aviators, our country and those in authority, and for those who make special requests for prayers. Evangelist Nicholson speaks each night except Sunday, and a number of conversions are reported to have taken place.

THE PRO-CATHEDRAL.

OBSERVE WAR ANNIVERSARY.

Special services of prayer and praise, in commemoration of the entry of the English-speaking world in the great war, will be held today in St. Paul's Pro-Cathedral, Olive street, opposite Central Park. Rev. John Munday will preach at 11 o'clock on "They Desire a Better Country," and at the evening service on "He That Cometh to God Must Believe That He Is."

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE.

LESSON-SERMON TOMORROW.

There are eleven Christian Science churches and two Christian Science societies in Los Angeles which hold regular services on Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. The subject of the lesson-sermon in each of them for tomorrow is "Love." Sunday evening services are held at 8 o'clock in First, Second, Third, Fifth and Sixth churches, and each Wednesday evening a meeting is held which includes testimonies of Christian Science healing.

TRINITY AUDITORIUM.

ADDRESSES BY DR. HOLT.

Dr. Ivan Lee Holt, who holds the chair of Old Testament history in the Southern Methodist University, will preach in Trinity Auditorium, Ninth street and Grand avenue, tomorrow morning on "Heaven's Test of a Man," or what the standards are that are to govern in the final judgment. His evening subject will be "Reaction or Reconstruction," a discussion of the probable trend of human life as a result of the war. Special musical programmes will be rendered at each service.

TEMPLE BAPTIST.

STITT WILSON'S LECTURES.

J. Stitt Wilson will give his final lectures to Temple Baptist Church, Temple Auditorium, Fifth and Olive streets, tomorrow. His morning subject will be "Jesus, the Hero of World Democracy," and in the evening his theme will be "Democracy Triumphant." Special musical programmes have been arranged for each of these meetings.

CHURCH OF THE PEOPLE.

REYNOLD BLIGHT RETURNS.

Reynold E. Blight, minister of the Church of the People, has returned from the Yosemite Valley, where he has been lecturing at the summer school, and will speak tomorrow morning in Blanchard Hall on "An Improvement on the Golden Rule." A special musical programme will celebrate the anniversary of Great Britain's entrance into the war on August 4, 1914. In the evening Mr. Blight will speak on "Imperial Britain and Republican America—Comrades in Arms."

In the First Presbyterian Church, Twentieth and Figueroa streets, tomorrow morning, Rev. Chester Franklin Ward will preach on "Our Savior and the Sword." There will be no evening service.

TESTIFIES FOR STATE.

Member of Alleged Bandit Gang Gives Evidence Against Comrade at Trial.

Glenn Way, who confessed that he was a member of the Denman-Spears-Dunn-Hadley-Riley gang of youthful bandits who are alleged to have robbed a number of individuals and on the night of January 21, last, shot and killed Philip Metz, a grocer, was a witness for the State yesterday in the trial of the case against Richard Riley, before a jury in Superior Judge Willis's court.

He said that Denman, Hadley and William Dunn came to his house and roused him out of bed on the night that Metz was killed, to get him to accompany them to their bungalow at No. 648 West Forty-first drive, and that on the way to the house they picked up Riley, who was with the party the balance of the evening.

Way said that after they had remained at the bungalow for some time, the boys drove downtown, purchased some liquor, and started for Vernon, but did not reach there. On Santa Barbara avenue they robbed a young couple, and returned to the bungalow. Later they robbed a man at Sixteenth and Flower streets.

NEGRO CHARGED WITH FOMENTING REVOLT.

FRESNO MAN BELIEVED TO HAVE BEEN TOOL OF KAISER'S AGENTS.

Among the cases to be tried by United States District Judge Trippet when he opens Federal Court in Fresno, Monday, will be the charge against E. P. Fisher, a wealthy colored rancher, that he attempted to foment rebellion among the negroes of Southern California with a view to discouraging enlistments in the army and navy.

It is alleged that Fisher offered $5 a day to colored men in California who would enlist in a colored army to rebel against the United States. It is understood that Fisher acted on the belief that Germany would seize Mexico and make a successful entry into the United States. Fisher is also charged with uttering seditious remarks on various occasions.

Other war cases on the Fresno calendar are those against David H. Rathbone, George B. Walker and Frank Lehman, all charged with sedition.

It is believed that the arrest of Fisher hindered the formation in Southern California of a widespread movement to discourage the enlistment of colored men in the army.

HOUSE NOT HURT.

A jury in Judge Weller's court yesterday returned a verdict against Fannie Manzer, who sued the Universal Film Manufacturing Company and others for $50,000 damages, charging that her apartment-house on West Sixteenth street had its reputation lowered by being filmed for a moral photoplay.

Fuqua.

SPITE CHARGED IN OIL ACTION.

Lawyers Say Prosecution is Malice Inspired.

State Commissioner Out to "Get" Operator?

Allege Business is Harassed Without Just Cause.

At the resumption of the preliminary hearing of I. W. Fuqua before Justice Hinshaw yesterday Capt. R. L. Peeler, "ambassador" of the Red Star Petroleum Company, testified that Mr. Fuqua had no knowledge of an alleged false report, purporting to have been signed by him and submitted to the deputy oil and gas supervisor for this district.

In the absence of Mr. Fuqua in San Francisco, Albert R. White, his secretary, declared on the stand that he had signed Mr. Fuqua's name to the report in question at the instigation of Capt. Peeler, and without any motive to deceive.

At the conclusion of the hearing late yesterday afternoon Justice Hinshaw announced that he would permit no further witnesses to testify, adding that he had heard enough evidence to reach a decision. The hearing was continued until Monday morning at 10 o'clock at which time both sides will present arguments.

Mr. Fuqua, as president and general manager of the petroleum company, operating at Montebello, is accused in a misdemeanor complaint of filing a "wilfully false report" in connection with the alleged presence of crude oil formations in well Baldwin No. 4, owned by the company. The charge is denied on the allegation that the presence of crude oil had not been actually discerned at the time the report was made to the State deputy supervisor.

SPITE CHARGED.

Attorneys for Mr. Fuqua yesterday characterized the case as one of malice on the part of the State oil and gas inspector and his deputy in the Southern California district. In more explicit language, they said, it is simply another case of one of the State's surplus of commissions interfering with the operation of a legitimate business without just cause. The "efficiency" practiced by the State commission on Mr. Fuqua and his associates, it was declared, has already resulted in a loss of much valuable time and thousands of dollars.

It was said that the present case against Mr. Fuqua is a sequel to a complaint filed against him by R. P. McLaughlin, State supervisor, growing out of the drilling of Darlington Well No. 1 at Montebello. This well was sunk to a depth of 2230 feet when the casing collapsed at 1500 feet, necessitating a parallel casing from that level to the bottom. In the meantime water seeped into the original cement bridge and after the second bridge had been constructed, in juxtaposition to the first. Mr. Fuqua was ordered by the State supervisor's deputy, M. J. Kirwan, to pierce holes in the new bridge.

TO GET FUQUA?

He refused to do so, was arrested on a misdemeanor charge and appealed to the district board of commissions, which sustained the appeal. The crux of the situation was that the State supervisor, in a huff, threatened to "get" Mr. Fuqua, according to his attorneys. The other side strenuously denies malice.

It was pointed out further that the friction between the commission and Mr. Fuqua and his associates reached a point where it was necessary to appoint a special "ambassador" in the person of Capt. Peeler, whose sole duties were to show every courtesy possible to State officers who visited the Montebello field so as not to jar their tender sensibilities, and to offer them every aid in the inspection of oil wells. In spite of these courtesies, it was said, the breach grew, culminating finally in the arrest of Mr. Fuqua on the accusation that he filed a false report relating to oil deposits in Baldwin No. 4.

With reference to Baldwin No. 4, about which the trouble is centered, three drillers were discharged by the company because they had neglected to take samples of shale as required by the State law after they had drilled into a suspected oil formation while working at night.

These drillers are said to have visited the State officers after their discharge with a statement that "the company didn't want to discover any oil," although it was in evidence. They testified at the Fuqua hearing along similar lines.

It was contended by the company that there was a showing of crude oil in the formation as extracted, but that it came from drills and equipment used in the well. The character of all formations, it was stated, is listed from the drillers' "log."

That there is crude oil at the 1812 level of the Baldwin No. 4 is admitted by company officials, but this was learned subsequently to the complaint filed against Mr. Fuqua, through belated analyses. The well has been shut down under orders from the State commission following a visit there of the deputy supervisor on June 25.

Military Mass Will Be Said Today for Angeleno Who Died in Eastern Hospital.

A military mass for Arthur [illegible] Krohnick, chief quartermaster, Flying Corps, United States Naval Reserve, who died at the naval hospital at Chelsea, Mass. on July 28, will be held at 9 o'clock this morning at St. Vincent's Church. Rev. Father MacRoberts will celebrate the mass. There will be thirty-six sailors from the Naval Reserve Station in attendance as pallbearers and guard of honor. Burial will be in Calvary Cemetery.

Krohnick was 22 years old, and the only son of Mr. and Mrs. B. Krohnick of No. 3901 South Main street. He had belonged to the National Guard and was the only Los Angeles youth selected for training last April to the newly formed Flying Corps of the navy. He was training at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, when taken ill of pneumonia. He was a prominent member of the Knights of Columbus.

The Divine Sarah.

BERNHARDT WILL BE AT RED CROSS SHOP TODAY.

Famous Tragedienne to Take Active Part in Ville de Paris Day.

BY OLIVE GRAY.

MME. SARAH BERNHARDT will actually be present, today, at the Red Cross carnival of the Ville de Paris, through the efforts of M. Fusenot, former owner and present wellwisher of the Ville de Paris, and by courtesy of Col. Gray of the Ordnance, the arrangement has been made. She will visit the Red Cross shop at Eighth and Alvarado streets, at 5 o'clock and will participate in the festivities.

There will be other interesting features, as, for instance, the farm, where real live birds, animals and poultry will be offered for sale. There will be a pie sale, a cake sale. Booths representative of various nationalities with sales-folk in the costume of those countries; there are to be peddles, chances, drawings of various sorts, for articles and merchandise of genuine value. There will be an excellent dinner, to the accompaniment of a gay cabaret programme, a matinee programme and a real theatrical programme throughout the evening. Dancing in the street will be to the music of the Seventh Artillery Band. Miss Shiela Burke has charge.

To enumerate the many features that is given, and to explain the interest of each, would take columns. The Farmerette Chorus, with a corps of beauties performing, will be a great drawing card. The music was written by Miss Hazel Madeline Lindorff, as was also that of the "Yaka Hula Yankee Doodle Girls." The cabaret will include Charlie Lloyd, Helena Keller, Mrs. Kissum, Mrs. Lee, Miss Meil, Helen Riddle, Hilda Galdmon, Baby Bilson and Baby Jane May.

Mme. Sarah Bernhart; "I Love to be a Farmerette," by a chorus; Gloria Mayne and Otto Lederer in an Indian sketch; Grace Immerman, Dustin Farnum, Eddie Polo, Howard I. Milholland, Marguerite Eaton, Kathlyn Krodel, Billie Scott, Phoebe Bassor, Charles Lloyd, Mrs. Kissum, Mrs. Lee, Leo White, Alice Lynden, Jessie Hallet, Flossie Ehrgott, Louise Riley, Baby Jane May, De Lano Hawaiian Steel Guitar-Ukulele Sextette, Morgan K. Antrim, David Court, Edwin Brady and Jim Standing, Otto Lederer, Helena Keller, "The Yaka Hula Yankee Doodle Girls," Rose Dione of Paris, Aresoni Enrico, Carroll Sauwinight, Mrs. Osmer H. Dietz, Norma Gould and dancers, Carl Bacchante, Helen Riddle, Bill Stinger, Boy Scouts Quartette, Al Pemberlly, Eliza Baumgarten, Kahn, Weller and O'Donnell from Orpheum; Ray Brighnall, Milda Weisz Galdman and accompanist.

More Facilities.

THIRTY STATIONS NOW IN CHILD WELFARE DRIVE.

SO GREAT has been the interest shown in the child welfare campaign that several additional [illegible] stations have been opened. There are now thirty stations in operation open from 9 to 11 a.m., on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, with competent nurses and doctors in attendance to weigh and examine children and advise parents as to the need of medical attention.

Mothers desiring to inform them- [illegible] as to the nearest station to which their children may ring up [illegible] and ask for the municipal nursing division. Miss Agnes' Talbot, chief municipal nurse, is in charge of the nurses for this drive. The big doctors and nurses outside of the regular Board of Health force are serving without compensation. A great many of the nurses who have taken the Red Cross nursing course have volunteered for this work.

Although several thousand children, under 6 years of age, have already been examined at the stations, the work will probably not be completed before the end of August, as it is the intention of the committee to keep the stations open until every mother has had an opportunity to have her baby weighed and examined. The ready response and interest of the mothers has been a source of gratification to those in charge.

The doctors and nurses are also visiting the large institutions and examining the children there instead of having them brought to the stations, in order to facilitate the work. Much interesting data is being compiled, which when completed will be forwarded to Washington.

Seeks Clew to Westlake Bank Robbers.

Detective Paul Stevens and bandit car,

Which was found in the rear of No. 4115 Budlong avenue yesterday. He is examining the finger prints on the machine with a microscope. He is one of the captors of the men who robbed the same bank last year.

Still at Large.

AUTO FOUND, BUT BANK BANDITS ELUDE POLICE.

THE definite elimination of two suspects as the bandits who looted the Westlake branch of the Home Savings Bank on Thursday, and the recovery of the automobile used by the robbers in their escape, were the principal developments in the activities of Capt. Home's detectives yesterday.

Two men, who at first were suspected by the police, were located by Detectives Williams and McNamara, but succeeded in convincing the officers that they were in no way connected with the crime. They were not detained.

The finding of the automobile added to the detectives' clews, but did not materially bring them closer to a solution. A number of excellent finger prints were obtained by identification bureau experts. These, however, were not immediately available, the police say.

The automobile used by the bandits was discovered yesterday morning in an alley back of No. 4128 Woodlawn avenue. It was a car stolen from Tenth and Hill streets on the night before the robbery, and was the property of Dr. D. A. Pallais of No. 3426 University avenue. After the finger-print experts worked on it for some time, the car was taken to the University Station, and there held by the police.

Aside from confirming the license number of the bandit car as first reported, and the few prints obtained from its doors, the automobile did not bring any more information to the detectives. The license plates used by the bandits, it was definitely established yesterday, were the ones stolen from William R. Phillips of No. 646 South San Pedro street. The number was registered to a small car, and discarded when the car was sold to another owner.

A check for $1094.42 indemnity, covering the amount taken by four masked bandits from the Westlake branch of the Home Savings Bank Thursday noon, was handed to Vice-President Frank M. Douglass a little over twenty-six hours later by J. Crider, Jr., attorney for the Fidelity and Deposit Company of Maryland. The bank has a $150,000 bond with this company.

That the robbers were nervous while doing the job is the opinion of Mr. Douglass. He says that they overlooked $2000 in currency altogether and that all the gold they picked up dropped on the floor as they made their getaway.

RED CROSS HONORED AT ALLIED WAR EXPOSITION.

these evils, the Americans wear the gas mask and the steel "trench bonnet," and their Red Cross men toil under fire.

The sham battle last evening was reviewed by Col. J. M. Williams, commanding officer at Fort MacArthur, about 400 of whose men detailed at the exposition have been taking part in the skirmish. The officer was interested in the movements of the Sammies in the vanquishment of the "Germans," and announced that he will send 700 additional men from his post to the park today to participate in the military programme.

A special military parade will be held this afternoon at the park by the uniformed men, who include the guard of Naval Reserve men and those from Fort MacArthur, in which more than 1000 will participate. It is to be headed by Col. Williams, and after the marching the men will stage the battle royal.

RED CROSS DAY.

Apart from the demonstration was the programme, which, to celebrate Red Cross Day at the exposition, and which took place at the Liberty Forum, was under the direction of Edward D. Lyman, head of the Los Angeles chapter. Pierson M. Hall, a man who has done extensive Red Cross work throughout the country, spoke on "The Work of the Red Cross in Los Angeles; Its Purpose, Scope and Accomplishment," and Miss Edith S. Bryan of the Red Cross bureau of sanitation told of the United States Nurse Reserve, which has its headquarters at No. 719 South Hill street, and its campaign for 1000 California nurse recruits to fill the places of the women who have gone to the front. In the evening Judge McCormick spoke on "The Los Angeles Red Cross as a Part of the Great War Drama," and Frank I. Wheat spoke on "The Great Army of Mercy." At the concert, which was given both afternoon and evening, Brooks Fisher and Sailor Lester Feighlal sang patriotic airs, and the Misses Alberta and Lorene Davis, "The Sammie's Sisters," gave bugle calls and solos on the meliophone and fluegel horn.

To formally welcome the exposition to Los Angeles, a joint luncheon, under the auspices of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, through whose efforts the exhibit has been brought to Los Angeles, and the Bureau on Public Information, was given to nearly 500 guests yesterday noon at the Alexandria. These represented not only the directors of the exposition, but also the leading naval and military authorities of the Southland and Los Angeles' principal business men. Also there were present the Red Cross Campaign Committee, four-minute men, members of the State Council of Defense and the heads of all other war work activities, and the mayors of a number of Southern California towns. The speakers' table was presided over by Maynard McFie, who represented the Chamber of Commerce.

"It looked for a time that the exposition was bound for the Northwest," said Director-General Chester I. Campbell. "But your Chamber of Commerce sent a corps of diplomats headed by Mr. B. H. Dyas, and—well we're here. (Applause.)

"We are bringing with us no light note. You look at a hundred captured German guns, or the great tank, or the pictures which we bring, and you have a serious realization of the aims of America in this terrible war. If you go away without realizing that we are fighting the entire German people we have failed in our signal motive—that of bringing home the whole terrible story of the war. And the time has gone by when we cannot tell the whole truth. (Applause.)

"We are not up against an enemy, but the German who has no idea of fair play. It is not even safe after a great battle to attempt to aid wounded Germans, for they only want to be helped that they may more reach for their gun to shoot you.

"We shall have to bear with our casualties. We may have a list not of 150 a day, but of 50,000. Too, when they come back maimed and wounded it is our obligation to receive them with that same love that we bestowed on them when we gave them up. If we lose the fight, we lose the whole Allied cause. We are here to show you the duty which you owe your country and your men 'over there.'" (Cheers.)

OUR ODDS.

Capt. Richard Haigh, commander of the Brittania, emphasized the necessity of doing one's limit at home.

"The German is not a sportsman," he declared. "But we do have to admit that he is brave. Although we believe that we have right on our side we must never forget to put our trust onto the scales of might. We must be equal to our adversary."

Other speakers included Congressman H. Z. Osborne, Motley H. Flint and Bernal H. Dyas, the latter reading commendatory telegrams from George Creel, director of the Committee on Public Information, Secretary of War Baker and Secretary of the Navy Daniels.

The guests of honor at the luncheon included Chester I. Campbell, Bernal H. Dyas, Congressman H. Z. Osborne, Motley H. Flint, Capt. Richard Haigh, Wendall McMahill, Lieut. J. T. Rolph, Lieut. J. Martin, Corp. Joseph Mandracchia, Marechal Le Soll, F. C. Spaulding, H. W. Curtis, Phil Wand, Harry R. Minor, Col. W. B. Ray, Col. J. M. Williams, Col. H. L. Steele, Col. Waldron, Maj. Lemmon, Capt. USURY'S DEATH SEEMS CERTAIN.

Anti-Loan-Shark Law is Now Sure of Place on the Ballot.

After a preliminary checkup on the signatures affixed to the anti-loan-shark petitions which have been circulated in Southern California cities during the past two weeks, State Senator Brown of the Anti-Usury League states that the league has enough bona fide names to get the proposed anti-usury act on the November election ballot.

It was at first thought that the Los Angeles petitions would not total more than 63,000 registered voters, but it now appears that about 70,000 good names were secured. To this San Diego added about 2000, Santa Ana secured 999 and San Bernardino delivered over 900, so the league figures that it has the required 74,000 signatures.

Within a few days the petition will be forwarded to the Secretary of State, where it will be checked up, and if it contains enough names the anti-usury act will be placed upon the ballot.

Today is Army Day at the Allied War Exposition, for the celebration of which an elaborate programme has been arranged. In the afternoon there will be addresses by Col. W. N. Hensley, commandant of the Arcadia Balloon School, and from Col. J. M. Williams, commanding officer at Fort MacArthur.

In the evening there will be boxing and wrestling bouts by ring stars, to be refereed by James J. Jeffries, George Blake and Tim McCoy.

The programme is as follows:

ARREST ATTORNEY ON CHARGE OF CAPPING.

ACCUSED OF ACCEPTING FEE FROM PRISONER, WHO WAS LATER FREED.

J. P. Stanford, with offices in the California Building, was arrested by Patrolman E. D. Brown on a warrant charging him with "capping" and lodged in the City Jail yesterday. The warrant was sworn to by Detective Sergeant Louis Rico. Stanford was taken before Police Judge Frederickson, who set his hearing for August 7, and released him on his own recognizance.

According to Detective Rico, Stanford went to see Jesus Segueda, a Mexican arrested several days ago on suspicion of robbery, and held in the City Jail pending an investigation into his case. Stanford, Detective Rico says, obtained $33 from Segueda a few hours before the man was released from jail, when the investigation by the police disclosed he was an innocent man. When a demand was made that Stanford return the money to the Mexican, he is alleged to have refused to comply.

Stanford denied he did not render any service, stating he was preparing to ask for a writ of habeas corpus when the man was released. He took the case, he declared, in the interest of Cleveland Schultz, another attorney, and turned $20 of the money collected to him.

"There isn't a word of truth in the statement," Mr. Schultz declared when told of Stanford's claim. "The man is no longer connected with my office. He did not take any cases for me, and never gave me any money."

STEAL MEAL SACKS.

Robbers Empty Two Hundred Bags of Feed on Floor of Man's Establishment.

Burglars who emptied 200 sacks of barley meal in order to steal the sacks were being sought by the detectives yesterday following the report made by Lee Chamberlain of No. 820 Turner street, at the detective bureau yesterday.

Mr. Chamberlain reported he entered his place and found the barley meal dumped out and the sacks gone. The place was entered through a back window. A razor left behind by the uninvited visitors was the only evidence found.

WANTS BEES.

Louis M. Cole, City Food Administrator, yesterday urged the Council to lift the ban now resting upon the bee business in Los Angeles. He said if permission is given to keep bees within the city limits it may result in increasing the sugar supply. The Council filed the communication, the Welfare Committee having recommended against a similar request a week ago.

THALIA AND MELPOMENE

CHARLIE CHAPLIN TO MEET THE DIVINE SARAH.

By Grace Kingsley.

A perfectly thrilly moment in the history of the Rialto is to occur some day next week, probably Tuesday or Wednesday, at the meeting of Thalia and Melpomene, when the world's most famous film comedian, Charlie Chaplin, will be host to no less a person than the world's most famous tragedienne, Mme. Sarah Bernhardt.

It is reported that even before she arrived, the Divine One had expressed herself as desirous of seeing "Charlot," as Charlie Chaplin is affectionately called in Paris, at work in his fun laboratory. On the other hand, no sooner had Mme. Bernhardt arrived than Charlie paid his devoirs to the great actress, and sent her an earnest invitation to visit his studio. So very formal and courteous were the exchanges of compliments, by the way, that one could fairly see our beloved Charlie making his delightful little bow and primly turning out his funny little toes. But at last it was all arranged, and as Charlie speaks some French, and Mme. Bernhardt speaks some English, they will doubtless get on delightfully.

Nazimova Will Come West.

Nazimova, who has always been a lover of the West, is to come West about September 1, to make her next Metro picture, a filmization of her last season's New York stage success, "'Ception Shoals." Albert Capellani will direct, and will precede her to the Hollywood Metro studios, engaging a house for her, and seeing that her dressing-room is properly fitted up with a French maid, an electric curling iron and all the other comforts of home.

Relief a Big Success.

That the work of the Los Angeles branch of the State Women's War Relief is the most successful in the country, considering the comparative size of the local organization with that of greater cities of the country, was testified to by a communication received and reported yesterday at a mass meeting of the organization, attended by more than 200 members, and held at the Mason Operahouse, the writer being none other than one of the principal officials of the national relief, who resides in New York.

Mrs. Harriet Higbee, president, presided at the meeting and reported informally on various matters, including the fact that the local branch of the organization now numbers 230 members, being a growth from the original handful when the relief was organized about four months ago. She reported also that the organization has $2000 in bank, besides which $600 had been sent to the Allied reliefs abroad, and that hundreds of garments, work of members, have been turned over to the Red Cross, some of which had already been sent abroad and had been heard from. In fact, one letter received from Belgium remarked naively that they "had no idea that actresses could sew so well."

Plans for the future were decided upon, with members volunteering to donate supplies for the Sunday canteens for the soldiers and sailors, held at the Mason, which have been proving such a huge success. An offer to be responsible for the canteens during the remainder of August and the months of September and October was made by Misses Virginia Drew, Daisy Robinson and Minnie Stearns, while nearly every member of the organization pledged herself to donate the necessary food to the canteens.

Masked Ball Postponed.

The masked ball, to be given by the Motion Picture War Service Association, and scheduled to occur tonight at Shrine Auditorium, has been postponed until Saturday night, August 17, with all tickets sold for tonight good on that occasion. The reason given for the postponement was that the art directors of the various studios who have had the decorations in hand, have been too busy with the various patriotic parades recently given to give the required attention to the matter, particularly as the decorations planned are among the most beautiful and elaborate ever exhibited at a like affair.

It is expected that every picture star of any candle power whatsoever will be present, including Theda Bara, Charlie Chaplin, Mary Pickford, Douglas Fairbanks, Fred Stone, Gladys Brockwell, Fatty Arbuckle, J. Warren Kerrigan, Bessie Love, Lillian and Dorothy Gish, Anita King, William Russell, Louise Glaum, Carmel Myers, Lila Lee, William S. Hart, William Desmond and Olive Thomas.

Revival at Morosco.

Oliver Morosco, in New York, has wired the local theater he will stage a great revival of "Upstairs and Down," at the Morosco here, following Bertha Mann's farewell week in "De Luxe Annie."

Will Rogers a Film.

Announcement comes from New York that Will Rogers, famous performer on the lariat, is soon to become a film. He will sell his celluloid double to Goldwyn, appearing in Rex Beach's story "Laughing Bill Hyde." Hobart Henley is to direct the picture, the scenario of which was made by Willard Mack.

GOVERNOR SPEAKS AT ADVENTISTS' MEETING.

DECLARES WE MUST STAMP OUT ALL TREASON AT HOME AT ONCE.

"You and I must stop the mouth of every man who talks against Old Glory and against the republic for which it stands," declared Gov. Stephens yesterday afternoon in his address at the biennial conference and annual camp meeting of the Seventh-day Adventists, at West Washington street and Orchard avenue. "It matters not whether the man is worth ten millions or ten dollars," continued the Governor. "No matter what his wealth, or social position, if he is talking against Uncle Sam, he should have his mouth stopped. I don't care how powerful the organization to which he belongs. He may belong to the I.W.W., but if he does, in this day, his very membership there makes him a traitor to the United States, and as a citizen and Governor I am ready to do my share in putting such a man out of the United States."

The Governor's address was largely patriotic. He commended the Seventh-day Adventists for their patriotism, and said there is no question in his mind about the Allies winning the war; that the only question is as to the price, "not in dollars and cents, but in human life." "It matters to all of us whether these boys come home again," he continued, "and if we would lessen the price, we must send as many men as possible quickly to France." He said America is fighting, not alone for democracy, but for her mothers and wives and daughters and sweethearts. "We are fighting for the preservation of the honor and for the safety of the women and children of the world."

NEGROES DEPART.

First Contingent of Colored Men Leave for Camp Lewis. Given Sendoff.

With members of the various negro musical organizations of the city serenading, eighty-one drafted colored men departed from the Southern Pacific station last night at 6:15 o'clock for Camp Lewis.

A second contingent will depart tonight at 7:30 from the Southern Pacific station, and tomorrow night seventy-two will leave at 6:15 from the same place.

Representatives of the Soldiers' and Sailors' Welfare Commission were present to give the men a sendoff. More than 2000 relatives of the departing soldiers were also present.

AVIATOR INJURED IN FALL AT MARCH FIELD.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

RIVERSIDE, Aug. 2.—Cadet John L. Ash of Pittsburg, Kan., was the victim of an accident at March Field today, failing with his plane, and will be an inmate of the camp hospital for a time. Ash was making his second solo flight when he met with the mishap.

High Prices in Belgium.

You wouldn't want to pay $1 for two pounds and a half of apples, would you? Well, that's the current price in Belgium, and if you wanted that many russets you would have to pay up to $1.80, even though they would be specked and full of worms. Other fruits have about the same prices: Pears, 45 cents apiece; lemons, 40 cents each, and grapes about $2.50 a pound. Recently at Liege pickled herrings were placed on sale; the ration was one herring to a person, at the price of 31 cents apiece.—[Belgian Bulletin.

LOS ANGELES (Loce Ahng-hayl-ais)

SPEAKING OF THE WEATHER.

This is fine weather. Some people may think it is a little warm, in which case they don't know what is good for them. There is nothing finer than these warm days with cool nights; and Los Angeles, between the mountains and the sea, seldom wishes to sleep without a light cover across the bed.

VICTORIES ON PAPER.

You may not be aware of it, but Foch's reserves have been completely wiped out. He hasn't any more. Ludendorff says so, and the German newspapers are trying hard to believe it. If the Germans could win victories by claiming them we would all have been paying taxes into Wilhelmstrasse long ago.

STAYING SANE.

The Massachusetts Constitutional Convention has voted down the proposal to make health insurance compulsory, on the ground that such an act would infringe on the rights of individuals. In other words, Massachusetts has no desire to lose her reputation for sane government. A man may even kiss his wife on Sunday in that State without danger of being called to account by a Morals Efficiency Commission.

REGARDING CASUALTIES.

When people are shocked by the casualty reports it is largely because they mistake the wounded for the dead and the slightly wounded for the seriously wounded. The casualty list of, say, 67,000, which was the British loss for July, contained but 9000 dead; and it is said that between 75 and 90 per cent. of the wounded recover to such an extent as to return to the firing line. Eight thousand is a severe loss when one visualizes that number of fine young men; but it is much smaller than 67,000, which the excitable confuse as being the number of the slain.

GOVERNMENT CONTROL.

With scarcely an audible click the control of railroads and telegraph lines—all lines of communication—has passed into the hands of the government. This does not necessarily presage government ownership. It is more or less of an experiment forced by an emergency, and much will depend on how efficient and successful that control may be in deciding whether the property will be restored to the hands of the owners. Protestations on the part of Congress that this control is not intended to be permanent mean nothing more than that Congress is aware that the country is not at present in a mood to countenance such an order.

AT THE COUNTRY STORE.

Apropos of the Tennessee State Society picnic at Sycamore Grove the story is recalled of a backwoods community in the Cumberland Mountains, into which came a student from the Tennessee University, explaining to the people, for the first time, the theory of evolution. Of course he was ridiculed, scoffed at and pronounced an infidel. Big Tom McGee, the alleged wit of the community, one day met the "edducated" youth in the little country store and, as there were several old farmers and a few rose-cheeked maidens present, Tom concluded to have a little fun at the expense of his learned countryman. "John," he drawled, "they tell me as how you b'lieve that human bein's are the offspring of monkeys and sich. Well, maybe your granddad was a gorilla or an ape, but I want ye to know that here's one feller that didn't spring from no monkey." "Perhaps you are right," smiled the university product. "The fact is, Tom, when I look at you I can easily see that your ancestry ends where mine began."

BIRDS OF THE NIGHT.

Speaking of little things having a great influence on thought and character, the writer knows a miserable man (but will not mention his name) who was persuaded by an insignificant mosquito to remain awake from midnight until getting-up time, and the way that pesky critter wielded his influence was something fierce. The sleepless sleeper tried every known tactic of pugilism and wrestling, from upper-cuts to strangleholds, to rid himself of his antagonist. These methods failing, the defendant resorted to nearly all the means of modern warfare, but the Hun of the insect world kept coming back. Falling back on the pacifist's idea, the pursuer of personal liberty pulled all the sheets and blankets over his head and body, but here again he was stung, for Mr. Skeeter immediately essayed the principle role in "Under Cover" and sang a "pretty baby" between acts. At 6 a.m. the besieged party peeped out from the covering to behold the predatory bird making his flight toward some dim corner of the room to sleep and prepare for the next night's attack—and probably to round up reinforcements. Of course the blood-sucker's hour is coming, but it seems as if it's going to require no end of strategy and "fierce to the limit" to dispatch him.

THE GERMAN RETREAT.

The German offensive has collapsed like an over-ripe egg. The Huns have lost the strategic positions to which they were retiring for shelter and are in full retreat.

The "pocket" that sagged down between Soissons and Rheims to the line of the Marne was misnamed. It was not a pocket; it was a grave wherein are buried German arrogance and pride.

The capture of Soissons is the final awakening of the Hunnish dream of glory.

From a military standpoint the capture yesterday of the plateau south of Soissons along the River Crise was fatal to the Germans. The taking of that strategic position involves a sweeping change in the Hun plans. The line of the River Vesle, where the Kaiser was planning to make a final stand, is no longer tenable. The half-made trenches where the defeated Germans were frantically digging in must already be under a terrific artillery fire from the commanding ridges that have been in the hands of the French and Scotch for twenty-four hours.

The Kaiser will have to find a hole further back to crawl into. It is very likely that the next line of German retirement will be the line of the River Aisne.

However, we can safely leave that to the Kaiser. The point is that the stronghold in which he had selected to make a stand is now practically outflanked by the Allied positions in Rheims and Soissons.

The collapse of the German retreat has been progressive and logical.

The real key to the situation was the forest east of Fere-en-Tardenois and the hills that lay north of that town.

The German General Staff fully realized the importance of these positions and made a desperate effort to hold them; but the pressure on the flanks was too severe. After one of the most desperate battles in the history of civilized warfare the Germans were driven out of these strongholds yesterday and today. As soon as they fell it was evident that the strategic high lands south of Soissons must also fall. They were outflanked and had become untenable. And so they, too, passed into the hands of the Allies.

With the French heavy artillery on the commanding heights of the Crise to the west of the "pocket," and the high plateaus south of Rheims belching shot and shell from other Allied batteries, the Germans' positions along the Vesle will be subjected to a murderous cross-fire and continuous bombardment.

There would seem to be no doubt about it; the defeat of the Germans in this important and vital sector is final and decisive.

No one knows how far-reaching will be this stunning reversal of German fortunes. It comes at a very bad time for the Hohenzollerns.

Turkey, if not actually at the point of breaking off diplomatic relations, is clearly in a position where she would like to do so.

That part of Russia over which the Kaiser has assumed guardianship is in a wild seething revolt, with no prospects except for something worse.

Austria is known to be in a discouraged and faint-hearted condition.

With the Japanese and Americans apparently organizing an important campaign in Siberia; with Austria licked to a dark brown finish in Italy on the line of the Piave, the Kaiser needed a victory worse than ever king needed one before.

It is very difficult to gauge the spirit of another people. From all conservative deductions and all the information that we have of the German people and German internal conditions, however, this defeat can have none other than a super-tragic effect upon the will-to-fight of the Teutons. Particularly as to the non-Prussian German countries like Saxony which have never been too keen on the war.

The German generals were outmaneuvered by Gen. Foch; the German soldiers were outfought by the Allied soldiers.

Primarily the German defeat was due to the astonishing failure of the German General Staff to insist upon the envelopment and capture of Rheims. In the earlier stages of the offensives it is probable that they could have taken this important strategic position. For some mysterious reason—probably because they thought they could crash through and break the Allied line at Chateau Thierry—they virtually ignored Rheims until the opportunity had passed. In the last phase of their attack they tried to remedy this error by throwing a flanking wing out into the Champagne; but it was too late.

We have no desire to indulge in cheap melodrama in regard to the part that the Yanks played in this tremendous victory.

Without boastfulness, however, we can feel certain that our boys were the principal implements used in thrashing the Huns.

Their employment—green troops as they were—at the sectors upon the tenure of which the fate of Europe rested, showed the transcendent military genius of Gen. Foch.

This great French soldier has a peculiar theory of military strategy. He believes that battles are won by moral weight rather than physical strength; that no army is beaten until it believes it is beaten.

To put it in the language of the street, Gen. Foch believes that the army that "gets the goat" of the enemy is the army sure of victory.

And if any "goat getting" performance ever happened it was the defeat of the crack German storm troops by green, raw, practically untrained American boys.

The famous Prussian Guard, the equally illustrious Bavarian Guard, the Kaiser's proud Jaeger battalions all bit the dust in turn. . . . beaten by boys who a year ago didn't know a howitzer from a ham sandwich.

And an army of five million more of them is on the ways being constructed.

In another way, it is beyond doubt that the victory of the American boys had an effect just as important upon the spirit of the French troops, although in quite another tone of voice.

It is certain that the French soldiers have fought even beyond their usual ferocity and skill—which is saying a great deal.

Without too much optimism it is safe to say that what happened on the blood-drenched fields of Fere-en-Tardenois yesterday and today has definitely shortened the war.

BOLSHEVIKI PROCLAIM MASSACRES.

The Bolsheviki have decided by formal vote to assassinate their political enemies. There is nothing new in this decision, but there is much that is ghastly in having it announced as a governmental policy. The Bolsheviki have used murder to relieve themselves of opponents, but now Lenine and Trotzky have proclaimed a general massacre of fellow-citizens. The so-called "laboring class" is to be aroused, inflamed and armed; and, by resolution of the Soviets, "mass terror" will be put into practice against the bourgeoisie—the detestable middle class, the taxpayers, property owners, merchants.

Americans can see in Russia the millennium that had been promised us by Lincoln Steffens and by the I.W.W.'s. The Bolsheviki are identified in this country as the Boppists and as the I.W.W.'s. Their propaganda is the same. Both gangs fervently mouth phrases of "peace" and "world brotherhood;" and though we in America are at present somewhat free from the danger, thanks to the energy of the Federal officers, it is a danger that cannot be permanently suppressed as long as evil-hearted malcontents, foolish and unscrupulous visionaries are born into the world. The Bolsheviki talked of revolution as the I.W.W.'s even in their prisons continue to talk of it; as something that would, as by an act of God, create equality of wealth and happiness. It was the middle class, the intellectuals of Russia, that dethroned the Czar; but the Bolsheviki saw the chance to establish a "Socialistic Fatherland," which is now the official name for that fearful country. The mob were promised "liberty," though they had a republic; but the promise of liberty was reinforced by such essential inducements as money, food and no work.

Peasants, illiterate, were put on the benches with jurists and cast deciding votes always in favor of other peasants without regard for the facts, without understanding the case. Some indication of this new justice may be had from the fact that employers were not only compelled to give exorbitant increases, but were sued and required to pay accumulated increases for ten years back. And soldiers elected their own officers—out of the ranks. The peasants did not want to fight; they wanted to be entertained.

The Bolsheviki had marvelous material to work on, for the masses of the Russians are illiterate, superstitious and lazy. The chains of the Romanoffs may have been responsible for that; but it was the greedy Lenine and Trotzky who eagerly subverted that illiteracy and laziness to their own Socialistic ideals. Moreover the Russian proletariat have so little honor that they rejoiced to quit without victory in the midst of a war against a more despotic house than the Romanoffs.

That this Bolshevikism was "made in Germany," that Trotzky and Lenine are known to have been in the pay of the Kaiser, and seemingly still are, only strengthens the resemblance of the I.W.W.'s that tried to influence the United States into pacifism. Bopp, Emma Goldman, Haywood tried to be to America what Lenine and Trotzky succeeded in being to Russia, and their exorcism of "brotherhood" and "peace" would have summoned here the devils from the seventh depth of hell as they were summoned there. It may possibly be that Trotzky, for instance, was not wholly insincere in his shallow but impassioned writings on ideal government; but his sincerity never for a moment interfered with his readiness to use any brutality, to pledge himself to any course of dishonor that would keep himself in power and satisfy the ever-increasing appetites of the mob which wanted cakes and wine.

Stupidity is a weak word to convey the utter lack of judgment in those minds that think governments can be improved by anarchy. Yet that anarchy has an immense following, not because it seems reasonable, but because its advocates are exasperated and conscious of incapacity to shape reforms by impressing compromises upon the existing regime. This incapacity arises in republics always more from a lack of just grievance than from obstinacy on the part of the government. Laws may be bad and often are; they are usually imperfect in some degree, for human perfection is not permitted, but they always admit of change. But the worst laws are rarely worse than none. The observance of law is all that keeps mankind from primordial brutality, all that protects the honest man from the vicious, all that separates the Hun from the civilized, the Bolsheviki from the citizens that respect life and property. When laws are flung aside, no matter from what high motives—if it is conceivable that high motives can ever fling them aside—such frantic anarchy and wholesale assassination as has come upon the "republic" of Russia is inevitable.

It is useless to point optimistically to the French Revolution and sustain hope for Russia so long as she is ridden by the Bolsheviki. The French mob was ignorant, but it had an honor that disdained to treat with its country's enemies. Girondist and Jacobin executed each other with a formality little short of assassination, but nevertheless with a semblance of law that the Bolsheviki have entirely abandoned. Louis XVI was tried, even though predoomed; but Nicholas II was assassinated, even though a prisoner. And it was that tenuous observance of law that kept France whole in the midst of her reign of terror. But even then order could not be wrought until an iron Napoleonic hand, instead of soothing and feeding the clamorous mob, drove it back to work and fighting; and that same hand wrote for France the Code Napoleon—as honest and equitable a code as is under the sun.

Whatever ideals the Bolsheviki may have hoped for rather than had have vanished. Their leaders deliberately appealed to the worst instincts of the animal man, and offered the cowards surcease of military duty under the guise of a "peace" that gave Germany all she would have killed a million of her own men to gain. The mob was promised food and money without work. There was only one way for Trotzky and Lenine to keep both office and promises—and the desire for office transformed the promises into license to rob. Now there is not even peace, for the despised middle class has taken up against the traitors the arms they laid down to Germany. There is no food, for who would grow wheat to have it stolen? There is no money, for the avaricious have absorbed it with a rapacity of which even plutocrats were incapable. And so, as a last desperate measure, the Bolsheviki have called upon the so-called laboring class in the name of the "Socialistic Fatherland" to massacre the bourgeoisie.

"A LITTLE LEARNING——"

A Chicago man was walking through a foreign quarter of his city when, with an amused smile, he stopped in front of a small eating place, on the window of which was painted in white, "Lam Stew."

Now the proprietor happened to be standing in the doorway, and when he saw the smile of the gentleman who had stopped in front of his place, he asked to be favored with an explanation of the joke.

Whereupon the other explained about the missing "b" in "lamb," and the proprietor accepted the correction in good part, at the same time expressing his thanks.

When next the Chicago man passed that restaurant he found that the menu had been changed, but that the lesson in orthography had not been forgotten. The proprietor was now offering "Clamb Chowder."—[Harper's Magazine.

Wouldn't Take a Chance.

"Why don't you get out and hustle? Hard work never killed anybody," remarked the philosophical gentleman to whom Rastus applied for a little charity.

THE KAISER.

The Kaiser makes me wear old duds, and drink the cheaper grades of suds, and smoke punk torches that, afire, taste like a shoe or rubber tire. Oh, once I always bought the best; I had an ample treasure chest; I drew on Cuba for cheroots, and sent to Lunnon for my boots; a Paris triumph was my hat; the Kaiser put a stop to that. I buy my things in pawnshops now; a battered derby shades my brow; a suit of mohair drapes my frame—the hanged old war lord is to blame. I used to scan the bill of fare and choose the richest viands there; a big planked steak was just my size, topped off with divers kinds of pies. Now to a chophouse I repair, and eat the cheapest viquals there; they will not let me have a steak, they have no flour to make a cake, they dole out sugar with a spoon, and cut in halves the luscious prune. The Kaiser's hand is everywhere; it even grips the bill of fare. The Kaiser's landed on our shore, his shadow darkens every door. Your every care and every ill you may charge up to Kaiser Bill. And he'll o'ershadow every heart until we wipe him off the chart; all other chores we must eschew until that mighty task's put through.

WALT MASON.

ONE DANGER IS IN OPTIMISM.

Ex-President Taft Says that as Long as the German Army Does not Mutiny, Kaiser will Hold His Throne.

BY WILLIAM HOWARD TAFT,
In the Philadelphia "Public Ledger."

We are a people of imagination. We are a people of energy. We are a people of self-confidence. We are youthful. We look forward. We form high ideals and we believe we can reach them.

Since we have entered this war we have had no doubt that we could win. As the stake we and the world have in it has made itself clearer through German greed of power, German brutality and German duplicity, our confidence that we can win has been strengthened by the fact that we must win. This fundamental belief in our capacity and power is one of the great elements of our strength. It furnishes a resiliency after disaster and disappointment and secures quick recovery and renewed attack.

On the other hand, it sometimes produces superficial thoughtless optimism which obscures clarity of vision as to the amount of preparation needed to achieve the great task to which we have set our hands. We eagerly accepted a prophecy that on the 1st of July last we would have five or six thousand flying machines with which to overwhelm the Germans and were humiliated by having not one hundred to our credit. The dash and courage of our boys in comparatively small engagements were dwelt upon in our cable dispatches with such detail and emphasis as to be out of proportion to their importance in the general struggle and to mislead the public as to their real significance. They were important in showing the exceptional quality of American troops and their excellence of training, but they did not indicate that the battle on the western front had been won or the offensive stopped.

Now that their numbers are really telling, we begin to have a sense of proportion as to the part that we are playing in stopping the German offensive in the Rheims-Soissons salient. Our triumphant satisfaction in this, however, may have a dangerous weight in encouraging the thought that we are near a breaking up of German power and a winning of the victory we seek. Undoubtedly it will be a great embarrassment to the Kaiser and his Prussian military party to have that offensive which he promised to the German people would end the war result in a deadlock.

He will have a great deal to explain to his people. They are suffering greatly from the losses of war and its privations. Food restrictions are growing heavier, but the German people are taught to kiss the rod that rules them. This is in their grain. As long as the German army does not disintegrate or mutiny, the Kaiser will hold his throne and fight for it. The power that Germany wields with her army on the western front and the rich resources in food and oil and metals and men that Russia offers for the future make the task of beating Germany as great as ever.

We must avoid as a national calamity the lodgment in the minds of any considerable part of our people of the idea that this victory in holding the Germans in the Rheims-Soissons salient brings peace within our view. It is only the beginning of a long, hard fight, a fight for which, if we are wise in this country, we should be now making adequate preparation.

We need a great army—an army that cannot be raised under the present draft law out of the proper Class No. 1. The first calculations as to the eligibles under Class No. 1 and under the amendment drafting those who have become 21 since May, 1917, have not been borne out by actual results. The draft law should be amended, and amended at once, and definite preparation should now be made for a much larger army than the present law will furnish, estimated only at 3,350,000 men by next January.

Our national policy should be the immediate raising of an army of such numbers that its preparations, equipment and landing in Europe will blazon to the world that defeat to the Germans is inevitable. We should make our preparation, as far as we can, en bloc. This more than anything else will break down the morale of our foe and possibly make the use of all of such an army unnecessary. If American optimism should halt our preparation into piecemeal efforts so that we only raise our army in installments, having on hand at one time an insufficient force to win, then the war will be long-drawn-out. It will cost vastly more in lives and treasure, and the achievement of our purpose will be rendered much more doubtful. Preparation for victory should be laid down. It means economy in lives and money cost and a quicker relief to this war-weary world.

MAKING ROOM FOR CRIPPLES.

There is no economy in using a whole man for work that a part of a man can do as well. If we can train the public or persuade the injured man that it is hardly respectable to do work that can be done by a cripple, in a short time the well man would feel much as the small man feels about something that girls can do; e. g., he respects the work itself, but, taking pride in the face that he is a boy, he cannot be induced to do it himself. There are plenty of occupations for the crippled, for the blind, even for the insane, which, being done by them, will release a stronger worker for some other line of production without interfering with the amount of the production.—[George Edward Barton in Re-Education.

Making the Best of It.

Personally it would have been our preference to hang Hindenburg; but, rather than have any trouble about it, we are perfectly willing for him to be dead from natural causes, if he will only stay dead.—[Houston Post.

The Marne seems to be a trifle to the Piave.

It will soon be the Wrist on the Rhine.

And the unsinkable boat is the speculative prospective.

The cannon fodder of the dear Fodderland is being rapidly exhausted. Yea, Bo.

The harvest is past, the summer is well on its way, and Paris has not yet been captured.

What has become of that scheme of having the mails delivered by airplane? Possibly up in the air.

The American eagle is now in aircraft over the cities of Germany. And they are not shooting up hospitals, either.

In the advance in the price of coal a lot of consumers seem to think that all of the cream is not to be found at the top of the bottle.

In the long run something is going to happen to the profiteers. They may not get their reward on earth, but the fireworks are just ahead.

The local farmerettes seem to be doing good work. And it was a short time ago that women in overalls were the subject of the jokes in the comic papers.

Some talk of running Henry Ford for President in 1920. He is already cranked up for the job. But he has quite a spell until the next Presidential election.

To the looker-on it seems that the war-engrossed citizenship is not paying much attention to what the candidate for office is doing at present. This is a healthy sign.

Everybody is looking to Uncle Sam for assistance. It is now announced that we are to send food to Liberia. Children, get out your atlas and find us where Liberia is located.

Don't say that Gen. Crowder is not a brave man. He has been in the hotel hat boy is engaged in nonessential occupation. Glad somebody had the nerve to swat him.

The Bolshevik elections remind us to recall the brand they used to employ in the solidly Democratic counties in Ohio—get in all of the Democratic votes and then close the polls.

Why worry about the present sort of clothes that men should wear? The point before the house is to get the cash to buy at all, after buying liberally in Liberty Bonds and War Stamps, etc.

The locusts this year have the effect "P" on their backs, according to reports, meaning of course that peace is to come. But the exact date is not given. That is the one thing on which even a locust has information.

Judge R. W. Bingham has been paid $5,000,000 as a fee from the estate of his wife, formerly Mrs. Henry M. Flagler, and announced that he will leave the money in Louisville, Ky., his papers. Good-by, coin!

Many of our local stores are finding that the restriction plan adopted limiting the days that goods may be held subject to exchange by the purchaser is not altogether satisfactory. So many women have simply impossible to make up their minds within the time limit.

In the building of the new revenue bill how would it do to put the English plan and impose a tax on servants in livery? Then maids might also be taxed on the same principle. Why should the key or a maid be employed to feed a poodle?

The new revenue bill will be no less be formed by the Hon. Claude Kitchin, that fantastic financier of Great Neck, N. C., that can't be found on any map, whose name seems to be that, as the Nero fiddled this war and he didn't, so he can pay for it by such drastic legislation as will deprive us of a chance to make a living, let alone the means from which to pay taxes.

Says Nation's Chief Enjoys Best of Health.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

PASADENA, Aug. 3.—"At 61 years of age, President Wilson at the present time has the appearance of a man ten years younger," said Dr. Stockton Axton, national secretary of the Red Cross and brother-in-law of the nation's executive, at the Hotel Maryland, yesterday, in Pasadena, where he was entertained at luncheon by army officers and Red Cross officials.

"Before this country entered the war, President Wilson bore a tired appearance, but now he may be said to be in the best of health and spirits," continued Dr. Axton. "He had a decision to make, and since, with the inner faith that he has decided rightly, has taken the best care of his health to carry the war through to a finish.

"Unlike most men in Washington, he has the will power to keep his body and mind fit to carry on his work. He is fond of the theater, where he finds his greatest relaxation.

Yesterday morning Dr. Axton visited the Los Angeles headquarters of the Red Cross. "A tremendous work is being done equal to that of any office headquarters in Los Angeles. It may be characterized as a great industrial enterprise," he said.

"A year ago the motive power was missed. It is emotion plus efficiency now. The salvage idea probably originated there, and they have been unique and absolutely practical in the Red Cross shop.

"Here in Pasadena the chapter has originated the student ccurse, which is a thorough training in all branches of the work from the organization on to bandage making and the executive work."

At the luncheon in honor of Dr. Axton as guests of Mode Wineman, a former and personal friend of the latter, were Lieut.-Col. and Mrs. William F. Hensley, Jr., Lieut. and Mrs. A. Culbertson, Miss Mary Wallace Wait, executive secretary of the Pasadena Red Cross, Mr. and Mrs. Lucien R. Howard, William Vedder, Jr., and Mrs. McWilliams, Jr., C. H. Prisk, Hugh S. INSPECTOR GORMAN VISITS THE HARBOR.

COMPLIMENTS CUSTOMS INSPECTORS FOR MANNER OF HANDLING EXPORTS.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

LOS ANGELES HARBOR, Aug. 2.—Inspector Gorman of the customs division of the Treasury Department from Washington, D. C., Customs Collector John E. Elliott and Special Deputy F. B. Cretcher of the Los Angeles customhouse paid the harbor a visit yesterday.

Inspector Gorman was greatly interested in the docks and facilities here, and complimented the customs inspectors here on their manner of handling exports. After looking over the harbor, Gorman left for San Diego, from where he will go north to San Francisco and Seattle.

L. C. Pardee, inspector in charge of the local office, stated that they expect to issue 8000 coastwise identification passes to seamen and fishermen in the coming six months and about 1200 licenses for small boats. Under a new system of issuing the licenses, the work is taken out of the hands of the Navy Department by the customhouse.

Clever Idea.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

ARMY BALLOON SCHOOL (Arcadia) Aug. 2.—Mt. Wilson has been added to the army observation balloons by the officers at the Arcadia school. The mountain has all the advantages of a big "sausage," with few of the drawbacks. While the soldiers assert it takes considerable "gas" to make the ascent, it is a kind of which there is a bountiful supply, being created by the lungs of each man climbing the grade.

The elevation is 6000 feet, considerably higher than the balloons at the school reach, and the view is that much more extended. A detachment from the school is sent to the top of the mountain each day. The instructing officers accompany, and the same course of work is done from the observation post at the top as is done in the balloon. This method has the added advantage of caring for much larger classes than can be sent up in the "sausages." As many as thirty students make the trip together, using the army trucks so far as possible in reaching their base of operations.

SUPPLY BASE FINISHED.

The school's new supply base on the grounds has been completed and the quartermaster's department is now located in permanent quarters. The structure is located in the southwest end of the grounds. It is fully modern in every respect and among the best equipped storehouse buildings in the Southland. The offices for the supply department are also located in the building, and all school supplies will be stored there as soon as they can be gathered from the various temporary locations.

The subject of entertainment for the soldiers at the balloon school is receiving more attention in the surrounding cities. Pasadena, Monrovia and other towns are taking up the matter of providing public entertainment for any visiting soldiers from the school. Monrovia has appointed a ways and means committee to have charge of such work. The committee met yesterday at the Granite Club to formulate plans, and it is hoped to devise some method by which clean amusement will be possible for those who wish, in addition to the social life provided by residents who have thrown open their homes to those soldiers who, suffering somewhat from homesickness, prefer a quiet evening in home atmosphere to the more strenuous galeties of the larger cities.

BOXING PROGRAMME.

The boxing programme put on tonight by the Y.M.C.A. at the school is expected to be the beginning of several such events. It is hoped to arrange a tournament, at which elimination bouts will be held, and the men who prove most skillful will be expected to teach their less-experienced comrades in the art of self-defense. There are no professional teachers at the school, but efforts will be made to have various professional boxers lecture and give exhibitions of their work.

Communications have been opened with several well-known pugilists, who have signified their willingness to give a day or two to the school whenever it is desired. Boxing is rapidly becoming one of the most popular sports at the school. Wrestling, while not so spectacular, is also taking hold, and it is possible some of the expert exponents of that art will explain their various holds with which it will be possible to "pin the Kaiser" three points down.

RIVERSIDE, Aug. 2.—The death of Henry M. Streeter at Laguna Beach, yesterday, removes another pioneer of this city. Senator Streeter, as he was familiarly known, settled in the Riverside colony in 1875. In 1879 he was elected to the State Legislature as Assemblyman on the Republican ticket, and in 1890 was elected to the State Senate from this district, and served until February, 1895. He also served a term as City Trustee and was appointed Postmaster in 1898, serving until 1902. He died in his ninetieth year and is survived by the widow.

RIVERSIDE, Aug. 2.—"Boys, we want you to get the Kaiser, and we hope that every one of you will capture at least one Hun," was the farewell message delivered yesterday afternoon by Rev. Frank Cooper of the African Baptist Church, on the occasion of the departure of a half-dozen colored lads for Camp Lewis.

The young men were given a rousing send-off at the Pacific Electric Station. A local grocery firm treated them to a watermelon feast, while they were the recipients of sweaters from the Navy League and a cash contribution of $12 for "smokes."

ELECT LEVEE BOARD

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

BLYTHE, Aug. 2.—About the most exciting election ever seen in Blythe has just been settled with the voting of trustees for the Levee board. The winning ticket is Jacob E. Ludy, retired civil engineer and cotton grower; A. F. Masterman, president of the First National Bank, and Herman Bohls, former banker, and now extensive cotton grower. Technicalities of eligibility entered into the campaign, and the aid of Dist.-Atty. Lyman Evans was invoked to settle the contested candidacies of all three winning candidates. It proved, literally, a warm election in the center of the valley's strenuous summer.

Dr. Bon O. Adams has been selected to take the place of Judge Craig, whose resignation he states was necessary because of the pressure of work and the fact that the Superior Court will shortly enter upon its summer vacation.

CAMP FREMONT GETS EIGHT FROM ALHAMBRA.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

ALHAMBRA, Aug. 2.—The local exemption board for country district No. 6, will send a party of eight men to Camp Fremont, Palo Alto, on the 6th. the men being assigned to the engineering branch of the service. They are to leave Los Angeles at 6 in the evening over the Southern Pacific. Those who are to go are named as follows:

Frank Buttolph, Monrovia; William Bell, Alhambra; Glenn Garwood, South Pasadena; Otto Reisner, Lamanda Park; John Hurley, Fontana; Roger Stover, Los Angeles; Floyd Williams, Monrovia; Antonio Callahan, San Gabriel.

All registrants in the district having deferred classification are being called before the board for examination under the work or fight ruling. Twenty were questioned last night, and as many more will be called each night until the long list has been exhausted, Judge Northrup sitting with the members of the baord in his capacity of government appeal agent. Each case is taken under advisement, and the men are directed to report back to the board at a specified time within a few days to receive their decision as to whether or not their present occupation is regarded by the board as an essential one. The right of appeal to the district board goes with each decision.

WANT CROSSING SAFE.

With the mangled remains of four people lying in a local mortuary chapel in Alhambra this morning as the result of their automobiles colliding with Pacific Electric cars at Wilson avenue crossing of the Covina line, in the northern section of the city, during the past four days, the authorities here have become aroused to the necessity of making immediate demand that measures be taken that will aid in preventing a recurrence of these tragic happenings. Vigorous representations will be made at once to the Pacific Electric people and the State Railroad Commission, reciting the urgent need of the installation at that point of something adequate in the way of safety devices.

STRONG EXPRESSES THANKS IN LETTER.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

ESCONDIDO, Aug. 2.—Through the Chamber of Commerce the people of Escondido country have received from Gen. F. S. Strong a letter expressing the heartfelt thanks of the officers and men of the Fortieth Division, National Army, which has been at Camp Kearny since the establishment of the cantonment.

"Just as I am leaving for foreign service," Gen. Strong writes, "I received a letter from Mr. Heath, your secretary, inclosing copy of resolutions passed by your honorable board on the 27th inst. On behalf of those mentioned in the body of the resolutions and the entire division, I wish to express our heartfelt thanks to the Chamber of Commerce of Escondido for their kind expressions of good will, and to assure them that we reciprocate your feelings in every way. The people of Escondido have given us on many occasions practical evidence of their interest in the Fortieth Division. Numerous units of the command have been royally entertained by you, and we feel that we are under great obligations.

"I trust that your interest in this division may follow us to the battle front, and that we may acquit ourselves in such a manner as to receive your commendation when we return."

FUNERAL TODAY.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONG BEACH, Aug. 2.—Funeral services for little Mary Winston, the 2-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Winston of Huntington Beach, who was killed last night on the Westminster-Huntington Beach road in the fourth violent death in this city or vicinity in as many days, will be held Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the Mottell chapel.

VERDICT OF SUICIDE IN KNIFFEN CASE.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SANTA ANA, Aug. 2.—"Lots of us would be better off if we could commit suicide," according to a statement said by his wife to have been made by Francis Fern Kniffen, 27, Garden Grove blacksmith, on the day that he shot himself. The statement was made, according to Mrs. Kniffen, at the inquest today, after Kniffen had read of a suicide at Long Beach.

Testimony showed that Kniffen's brother in Kansas had killed himself some time ago, first paralyzing himself by a .22 shot in the forehead and later finishing the job by a shotgun charge in the back of the head. S. L. Kniffen of Los Angeles said his brother was a peculiar man, and he was not surprised at the suicide. A verdict of clear suicide was returned by the Coroner's jury.

PLAN COTTON-SEED MILL.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

BLYTHE, Aug. 2.—The cotton growers of the Palo Verde Valley are uniting for a co-operative cotton-seed oil mill. The growth of the valley has reached proportions that make the mill imperative, instead of sending the seeds away to be milled.

ADRIFT AT SEA.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONG BEACH, Aug. 2.—Running out of gasoline and caught in a heavy storm off the west end of Catalina Island Tuesday, Harry R. Lee, manager of the Arrow Fish Company, with his wife, arrived at this port this afternoon after drifting helplessly in an open launch for two days and nights.

Huge swells threw the little thirty-foot speedboat out of its course when Mr. Lee headed for Long Beach Tuesday, and his available gasoline supply was soon exhausted endeavoring to keep from being tossed further to sea.

As darkness descended Tuesday night a heavy fog enveloped the island, and Lee was totally unable to learn his bearings. There was nothing to do but allow the craft to drift. About 10 o'clock the first night out it commenced to rain, and did not let up until morning.

Today the couple effected a landing six miles below San Juan Capistrano, fifty miles from their original objective—Long Beach harbor. In order to pilot the launch through the breakers to reach shore Lee had to tear up boards from the floor of the vessel to use as oars.

He walked four miles to the nearest telegraph station and wired to Long Beach for assistance and dry clothes. He returned to the beach with provisions and fresh water for himself and wife and arrived in Long Beach this afternoon on the launch Point Ellis, of the South Coast Canning Company, with his own launch, the Lark, in tow, submerged.

THIRTY-TWO GRADUATE.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

RIVERSIDE, Aug. 2.—Thirty-two cadets were graduated at March Field yesterday, receiving their commissions as lieutenants. This is the largest class graduated since the school opened. Six of the men left for New York City, and it is believed they are en route to France. Twenty-five men have just arrived from the Rochester School of Photography and have been attached to the photographic department at March Field.

RETIRE BONDS.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

OXNARD, Aug. 2.—The Patterson Ranch Company, which two years ago issued $650,000 six-year bonds in connection with ranch subdivision and improvement in this county, retired the last $137,000 of these bonds August 1, or in one-third of the estimated time.

REQUIRE MILITARY TRAINING.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

PORTERVILLE, Aug. 2.—Military training will be one of the required courses at the Porterville Union High School this fall, according to plans which have been announced by W. A. Ferguson, high school superintendent.

ROUSING CHEERS FOR BOYS GOING TO WAR.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SANTA ANA, Aug. 2.—A more rousing send-off than ever is promised for future draft contingents through resolutions adopted today by the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association. One resolution urges every business house and family to have at least one representative at the train when any contingent leaves, and the other urges store owners to get their clerks and customers to the sidewalk as the contingent and escort marches by to get them a cheer on their way to lick the Hun.

CARR APPEALS CASE.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SANTA ANA, Aug. 2.—F. H. Carr of Turlock, buyer for the Randolph Marketing Company, is hotly contesting a recent sentence by Justice J. B. Cox of ten days in the County Jail for alleged speeding fifty-two miles an hour. As announced at the trial, Carr today filed an appeal to the Superior Court.

Stomach Troubles.

CALIFORNIA'S SELECT MILITARY SCHOOLS

San Diego Army and Navy Academy

Preparatory to Colleges, West Point and Annapolis.

PACIFIC BEACH, CAL.

The Academy has taken first rank among the preparatory schools in the West. It was the first private school on the Coast to become affiliated with West Point.

It is fully accredited by the University of California and is one of three military schools of the State in the university's "Division A," which represents highest scholarship standing.

It is under government supervision with a regular army officer as professor of military science and tactics. A large percentage of its graduates have received commissions in the army.

Pasadena Army and Navy Academy

PASADENA, CAL.

The Pasadena Academy, the Junior School, is located on one of the most beautiful sites in California, the property formerly owned by the Annandale Country Club, in the suburb of Pasadena. There are sixteen acres in the campus. No expense has been spared to make this the best equipped school for younger boys in California. A new dormitory with hot and cold water in each room, ample shower and tub baths, cement tennis courts and play time carefully supervised, the comfort and happiness of the boys are thoroughly cared for. The same high standards of instruction and character training that have characterized the San Diego Academy are maintained. For full information phone C. M. WOOD, Headmaster. TRADING AT LOWEST EBB DESPITE GOOD WAR NEWS.

Rails Make Further Recession; Liberty Exempts Touch Par First Time.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—Stocks were under less restraint today, although trading was at lowest ebb, with further backwardness in rails pending the adjustment of long existing differences with Director-General McAdoo respecting rental contracts.

War news was distinctly heartening, although without influence marketwise and the foreign political situation assumed more hopeful aspects, in the opinion of financial interests, from the decision of the administration to co-operate with its allies in Eastern Russia.

Dealings dwindled to less than the usual number of speculative favorites, investment issues receiving scant attention. The only exception was the strength of Liberty fifty-per-cent 2½s, which touched par the first time this year.

General Motors was most often the central feature, recovering the greater part of its recent loss at a gross advance of 6½ points. Industrial Alcohol, oils, Marine preferred, Baldwin Locomotive, Sumatra Tobacco, Tobacco Products, Anaconda Copper and Fertilizers comprised the other steady to strong specialties at extreme gains of 1 to 3 points.

Further labor difficulties forced Western Union Telegraph down another 2 1-4 points to a new low record for the present movement. American Telephone canceled a part of its recent improvement and Pacific Telephone bonds were heavy.

United States Steel was almost a point higher at its maximum, but dropped with other leaders at the irregular close, retaining only a small fraction. Sales amounted to 736,000 shares, the lightest full session of the year.

The general bond list was lower, internationals easing with domestic issues, including 4 1-4s. Total sales (par value) aggregated $4,875,000. Old United States bonds were unchanged on call.

COTTON PRICES RISE ON STRONG BUYING.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—A continuation of yesterday's buying movement caused further sharp advances in today's cotton market, final prices being from 52 to 114 points net higher.

A rise on general buying, based on hot, dry weather in the Southwest, favorable war news and rumors in the eastern belt, that the high-level prices of the day were reached. On the first half trade was spreading in the eastern belt there were a good many buying orders, baker, all. Port receipts 4721 bales. Total United States port stocks 974,115 bales. Futures:

ANGELENO'S MINING DEAL BRINGS $60,000.

Dr. H. C. Hall, a former Los Angeles resident, but now physician for the Salt Lake Route at Las Vegas, Nev., is in the city for a few days, having just come from Salt Lake City, where he closed a deal for the sale of a one-fourth interest in the Nelson mine, a big manganese property located at Pioche, Nev. The interest was purchased by the Prince Consolidated Mining and Milling Company, which already owned the three-fourths interest. Dr. Hall was paid $60,500 spot cash and will recently received $1500 in royalties for ore shipped.

The Prince Consolidated has been shipping from forty to sixty cars of ore a week, and has paid dividends of about $500,000. The Prince company has been developing the property for the past two years, and enormous bodies of manganese ore have been blocked out. The property is adjacent to the original Prince Consolidated holdings, also to the Nevada-Louise mine, in which Los Angeles and Long Beach capital is extensively interested.

The latter company is just completing a railroad spur to its mine and will begin regular shipments of ore to the Utah smelters, the management having recently closed a contract which calls for 100 tons per day.

BRADSTREET'S WEEKLY REPORT ENCOURAGING.

GENERAL BUSINESS CONDITIONS AVERAGE BETTER THAN PREVIOUS YEARS.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—Bradstreet's tomorrow will say:

"Further marked extension of government control of production, of distribution and of labor; more urgent demands upon already full supplies for still greater efforts, and further shifting of the stream of orders to western points from congested eastern areas, stimulation of production in greater volume, at some points record, volume of midsummer wholesale and jobbing distribution, fair to good retail and mail order business in spite of 1917, improved collections, shadings of food crop estimates and decided lowering of cotton forecasts, due to drought in the latter, a dull stock market, firm with stringent money, high record bank clearings, close to low-record failure totals, and a slightly better labor situation, are the salient features in a week usually full of interest commercial and industrial events.

Weekly bank clearings, $5,878,000,000.

WOMEN HOME WOMEN MAKING SHELLS NOW.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

LIVERPOOL (Eng.) July 5.—Here is a shell factory in this district almost exclusively by daughters of business and professional men. Many are young women who had never done any kind of work except sewing and a bit of cooking. The heavy work of the establishment is performed by the brothers.

It is a non-profit-making factory and is the reply of the Cunard company to the Germans for the sinking of the Lusitania.

HERE ARE FAIR FOOD PRICES.

Quotations Show What You Should Pay Today for Things to Eat.

The following official quotations on foodstuffs, fixed by the Los Angeles Fair Price Committee of the Food Administration as neither a minimum nor a maximum, but as constituting a fair price for the commodities named, are now in effect:

Milk—Wholesale, 13 cents per quart, 7 cents per pint; retail, 14 cents per quart, 8 cents per pint.

LOCAL FLOUR PRICE CAUSES INQUIRIES.

HIGHER FIGURE HERE THAN AT OTHER PACIFIC COAST POINTS PUZZLES.

Telegraphic dispatches from Washington stating that the United States Food Administration has set the price of flour at Los Angeles at $10.35 a barrel has caused the local office of the Food Administration to be flooded with inquiries, asking why flour is retailing here for over $12.50 a barrel.

Harry Dranger, deputy city food administrator, stated that this price is what it costs at the mills. To this must be added the cost of sacks, milling, warehouse charges and hauling, which brings the wholesale price of flour in this city to $11.80 a barrel. The former quotation was $11.40.

No one at the Food Administration office could say why flour destined for Los Angeles should cost more than at any other point in the Pacific Coast. Considerable criticism is being made over the fact that San Diego, which is farther from the mills than is Los Angeles, should be receiving flour at 7 cents less than is paid by local concerns.

The Los Angeles Fair Price Committee yesterday announced an advance of 30 cents on the hundred pounds of potatoes, wholesale, and 15 cents on fancy brown onions.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONDON, July 4.—Saturday has been designated as "strawberry" day in Great British. Since the government commandeered the fresh fruit crop for jam purposes for the soldiers, Saturday is the only day in the week when the public may buy strawberries.

The berries retail at 18 cents a pound and are in great demand. Before they were commandeered the price was about 36 cents a pound.

With the "strawberry" Saturday also came the "strawberry queue." Many housekeepers bought five and six pounds, if the storekeepers would allow them that many, and endeavored to get more for jam making. Nearly all cream from the English dairies goes to the cheese factories, so strawberries and cream, even on "strawberry" Saturday, is but a memory in all parts of the country.

GERMANS WANT CRIMINAL HOME.

Berlin Press Threatens American War Prisoners.

Transfer of Captives to be Discussed at Berne.

Berlin Press Urges Demand for Spies' Release.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

AMSTERDAM, Aug. 2.—Referring to the projected exchange of American and German prisoners of war, the Weser Zeitung of Bremen makes the sinister remark:

"We are able to contain our joy. American prisoners are welcome guests for whom we have sufficient employment on the eastern labor market and in our agricultural enterprises behind the front. They may be sure of getting, with Teutonic punctuality, all they are entitled to under The Hague convention, and more if they prove good workers; although they must thank Anglo-American starvation measures if their diet falls below the home fleshpots."

WANTS CRIMINALS.

The newspaper urges that full counter value be expected, and, above all, that civilians like Carl Buenz, the general representative of the Hamburg-American Steamship Company at New York, who is now serving an eighteen-month sentence in the United States prison at Atlanta, Ga., for conspiring to defraud the United States government, should be the first to be released. It is added that the staff which served under Buenz in New York should be included in this category.

OUR TROOPS DISMAY PICKED HUN TERRORS.

AMERICANS MAY BE "RASH" BUT THEY CARRY FEAR TO FRIGHTFUL FRITZ.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN FRANCE, Aug. 2.—American unconcern in a close fight not only has surprised the enemy, but it has brought a feeling of dismay to picked detachments charged with the duty of driving the fear of the Germans into the soldiers from overseas.

It appears to be a sort of gospel among the Germans that when they attack for the purpose of spreading terror, after careful plans and preparations, that the adversary should lay low and signal surrender at the right moment. They are slow to admit that their chosen victims may be anything but terrorized or they may be found anywhere else than under cover when the "frightfulness" comes along.

Yet they do find American boys at times coming out into the open, often rashly and unnecessarily to meet the worst they have to offer. This fighting spirit often amounts to foolhardiness and that is how the Germans classify it, although more in distress than in anger.

"We couldn't take the village because the Americans were where they had no business to be," said a prisoner captured at Xivray, on the Toul sector. "They came right out through the barrage and it wasn't right."

PIEZ SAYS PLENTY OF STEEL ASSURED.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 2.—Charles Piez, vice-president of the United States Shipping Board, announced today that the War Industries Board has promised the Emergency Fleet Corporation 50,000 tons of steel plates and 16,000 tons of steel shapes a week for the next year.

This, he said, is enough steel to construct 10,500,000 tons of shipping a year, and he added that it would furnish the "cushion of steel" necessary to insure maximum production in every shipyard in the country.

LOSES DATA ON WAR MUNITIONS.

Powder Company Official Offers Reward for Wallet's Return.

A wallet containing a Federal water front pass, important data concerning government munitions and explosives of value to an enemy, was lost by or stolen from C. H. Tucker, of the Hercules Powder Company, supposedly on a Moneta avenue car between Thompson avenue and Fourth street at between 3:30 and 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The person who finds the wallet which is black with a government red-white-and-blue munitions stick marked "Rush" on the outside, will be rewarded by Mr. Tucker on returning it to him at the Van Nuys Hotel, and at the same time prevent important information from falling into enemy hands.

UTILITIES BODY IS URGED ON WILSON.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—Establishment of a national public utilities administration, to recommend rate increases for certain utilities as a war measure, has been recommended to President Wilson, it became known today by the National Association of Railways and Utility Commissioners, representing practically all State commissions. This recommendation is similar to that made yesterday by the War Labor Board in connection with the awarding of wage increases to employees of a number of street railways.

Special significance was attached to the association's proposal, inasmuch as it represents the views of many members of the local and State bodies with rate-supervising powers.

The association's proposals, contained in a letter to the President, were as follows:

"Establishment of a national administrator or board of three, with power of recommendation, advice or requests to the State, municipal authorities.

"No disturbance of the rate and service powers of the State commission or the contractural powers of the municipalities, except as the State or local authorities may subordinate these to the Federal recommendations for the war-time emergency, as we believe would almost uniformly be done.

"Use of the State commissions by the Federal administrator or board for all purposes of inquiry, investigation, ascertainment and report of facts, and co-operation in recommendations, where needed, to the local authorities."

Any increases in rates granted by local utilities commissions or by other local governing bodies as a general instance would be for the war only, it was suggested.

TURKS DRIVE GREEKS INTO DESERT TO DIE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—More than 250,000 Christian Greeks have been deported by the Turks from their homes in the flourishing regions of Turkey bordering on the coast, notably from Samsoun, Avalli, Trebizond, and Smyrna, according to a report from the Greek Foreign Office of the Relief Committee for Greeks of Asia Minor, given out here today.

"These Christian Greeks," says the committee, "who have been among the most peaceful and prosperous of the peoples of Asiatic Turkey have been, from the first, marked for spoliation and slaughter because of their thrift and their faith, both of which are capital offenses in the eyes of their oppressors.

"They have been taxed out of business, their homes and property confiscated and themselves driven into the deserts to die of starvation.

"These suffering exiles look to America as their only hope. During the fiscal year which ended June 30, last, this committee sent $40,226 to help keep them alive until they should be freed from the yoke of their oppressors and allowed to return to their homes."

NO RACIAL CONFLICTS IN ITALY, SAYS NETTI.

By Henry Selden.

[ATLANTIC CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

[Copyright.]

PARIS, Aug. 2.—When Francesco Netti, Minister of Finance for the Italian government, was in Paris the other day I asked him several questions. He was to leave within an hour for London and had no time for a complete interview, but he said he would write me from London, which he has done.

One of my questions was, "Will Italy's after-war aspirations be in accord or conflict with the desires for the freedom of races now subject to Austria?"

In his letter received today he makes the following frank answer to the question which should surely have an effect on members of subject races now forced to fight in the Austrian ranks against their will.

"There is no conflict between Italian aspirations and the aspirations of the Slav populations of Austria-Hungary. The Juso-Slav question will be solved without difficulty. Sig. Orlando's statements on this point leave no room for doubt or misunderstanding. The one supreme need of the moment is to resist and to end the war.

"Italy, the land of the eldest and noblest civilization, the home of democracy and freedom will certainly not be the country to create fresh obstacles for the nationalities who are now suffering for liberty and independence. Let America know this. Let there be no misapprehension. This is our will today and it will be translated into action tomorrow."

SEATTLE, Aug. 2.—Heavy seas today were reported endangering the positions of the salvage crews who are endeavoring to unload and float the Japanese liner Canada Maru, which stranded during a fog Tuesday while inbound from the Orient, with a cargo valued at $4,000,000.

A lighter worth about $15,000 was whipped from her lashings near the Canada yesterday, and hurled onto the rocks, a total loss.

If the weather remains good the big boat can be floated in three days, salvage men said tonight.

The rocky shores near the scene of the wreck are littered with merchandise thrown overboard from the Canada Maru. The salvage men are loading some of the cargo onto scows.

CHIEF OF HUN NAVY RETIRED BY ILLNESS.

CARRIER PIGEON PIE IS EATEN UNAWARES.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONDON, July 4.—The most expensive pigeon pie which perhaps has ever been served anywhere was enjoyed by members of the Allied diplomatic colony in Jassy, in Rumania, last spring.

One February afternoon one of the Allied Ministers received a crate of fine pigeons. There was no mark to indicate the sender. The pigeons were killed and cooked that evening, and a number of the Minister's colleagues, including American Minister Vopicka, had their fill of pigeon pie.

A week later a delayed telegram reached the Minister who had been host at the dinner. It was from a high military officer of his government, directing him as to the disposal of a "very valuable consignment" of carrier pigeons which had been sent him after a long course of training, and which were designed to take an important part in certain highly confidential negotiations then pending.

NAME CHOICES FOR ASSEMBLY.

Betterment Association Gives List of Candidates.

Men Pledged to Economy will be Supported.

Three also are Indorsed for Senatorship.

At a meeting yesterday of the executive committee of the Association for Betterment of Public Service, announcement was made of the candidates for State offices to be recommended and officially indorsed by the association, for the attention of the voters of Los Angeles county.

Sixty-first Assembly District—John Robert White, Jr.

Sixty-third Assembly District—Sidney T. Graves.

Sixty-fourth Assembly District—George A. Lynch.

Sixty-fifth Assembly District—George M. Easton.

Sixty-sixth Assembly District—Morris M. Ferguson.

Sixty-eighth Assembly District—E. R. Shepherd.

Sixty-ninth Assembly District—John C. Stick.

Seventy-second Assembly District—Elsner P. Bromley.

Seventy-fourth Assembly District—Peter H. Muller.

Seventy-fifth Assembly District—Edwin Baker.

The senatorial candidates recommended are: For the Thirty-fourth Senatorial District, Charles W. Lyon; Thirty-sixth Senatorial District, William F. Knight, and for the Thirty-eighth Senatorial District, Henry H. Yonkin.

Candidates for the Sixty-second, the Seventieth and Seventy-first Assembly Districts were not selected, but it is expected will be taken up for indorsement at the next meeting of the executive committee of the association.

Each of the candidates indorsed by the association has pledged himself to vote and work for sane legislation, dealing with State matters in a businesslike way to reduce unnecessary expenses and lower taxes.

These candidates have pledged themselves to carry out to the best of their ability the principles laid down by the association, which include the repeal of laws that create unnecessary expense and the abolishment of all bureaus, commissions and political jobs not absolutely necessary to efficient government.

It was only after careful investigation of the capabilities and qualifications of each candidate that the seal of approval of the association was placed upon them, and all voters who patriotically have the best interests of the State at heart are urged by the business men who form the Association for Betterment of Public Service to get behind these candidates and place them in State offices where they will have an opportunity to remedy evils of State legislation that have placed a tax burden upon the citizens.

At the meeting yesterday, the entire membership of the executive committee of the association was present. They are: W. A. Barker, president; J. M. Schneider, Harold Arnold, Mrs. O. P. Clark, W. A. Faris, Mrs. C. F. Gray, Harry M. Pickner of Pasadena, L. L. Loststter of Pomona; Mrs. J. B. Stearns, Gilbert Wright, Frank Roberts, Long Beach; Judge W. A. Rennie, Venice; A. W. McPherson, Santa Monica; Charles H. Toll, Glendale; Charles Gordon, Glendora, vice-presidents; C. C. Haskell, treasurer, and Hugo D. Burgwald, secretary.

Secretary Burgwald urges voters who desire to assist to send their names or call at the association offices, No. 335 Consolidated Realty Building.

TAKES MAN'S JOB.

Pouring molten iron fresh from the furnace is just as easy for a woman as driving an automobile, according to Mrs. Rosita Martinez, who told Judge Wood yesterday that she had embraced the hitherto male-exclusive job of iron moulder in order to properly educate her children and to provide the means with which to furnish her daughter with a high school education.

She appeared in court as defendant in a divorce action filed by her husband, Henry Martinez. He was granted a decree on desertion grounds, but the court, in view of her story, placed the two children in the joint custody of both, to remain with their mother.

Mrs. Martinez declared she worked in a foundry at Huntington Park, having resigned her employment in a laundry in order to make more money. She resides at No. 3624 Mettler street.

SUES OVER LAND DEAL.

Closely following his acquittal on the charge of insanity, J. A. Dean appeared before Judge Taft yesterday as his own attorney in a suit for $56,750 damages and an accounting against Louis Stapper, the Security Trust and Savings Bank, Mary H. Spires and E. W. Cason.

Dean contended that he represented the bank and Mrs. Spires in an attempt to sell the southeast corner of Sixth and Olive streets, and that he had received an offer from Stapper to provide a suitable tenant. The defendants deny the allegations.

DO NOT FAVOR INCREASED TAX.

Supervisors Take Slap at Education Board's Plan to Vote More Money.

In the face of the plan of the city Board of Education to place on the ballot for the election, August 27, the proposition of a special tax levy for school purposes, the Board of Supervisors yesterday voted a resolution giving notice to school officials that school needs do not call for a larger tax than $1.05. This is the same rate as that of last year.

The school board asked for an increase in the rate to meet a proposed advance in the salaries of teachers.

WINS MANY VOTES IN SAN FERNANDO VALLEY.

MONTAVILLE FLOWERS GIVEN AN ENTHUSIASTIC RECEPTION.

Entering what has been carded by some political wiseacres as the enemy's territory, Montaville Flowers, the Republican candidate for Congress in the Ninth District visited yesterday afternoon in the San Fernando Valley and returned home late last evening with many new friends, who pledged themselves to support him at the primaries.

An enthusiastic crowd heard the patriotic address of the Monrovia orange grower both in Lankershim and San Fernando, and on all sides were murmurs of approval as Mr. Flowers declared the first duty of every loyal American citizen was the winning of the world war and bringing the Kaiser to his knees as Uncle Sam's men march through the streets of Berlin.

Mr. Flowers will be heard by the citizens of Covina tonight, and tomorrow he will deliver his new lecture, "Constantinople and Its Relation to the World War," to the Ministerial Union of Burbank in the Union Church.

Headquarters Moved.

The Stephens for Governor Committee, of which Tom Hughes is the chairman, has a new home. The headquarters have been moved from the H. W. Hellman Building to the entire ground floor of the O. T. Johnson Building, Fourth street and Broadway.

Gov. Stephens and party left early this morning by automobile for the State capital, and the Governor's northern campaign managers have a strenuous two weeks mapped out for him, during which he will cover all of the big counties by auto, dropping as far south as Fresno. Three or four days will be spent in San Francisco proper, according to present plans.

The Governor is scheduled to spend the last ten days before the primaries in Southern California, and will open his final campaign in the Southland with a meeting at the exposition grounds at San Diego. Several meetings are being arranged for Los Angeles.

W. W. MINES NAMED TO POLICE COMMISSION.

IS PROMINENT IN REPUBLICAN AFFAIRS AND FORMER HEAD OF REALTY BOARD.

William W. Mines, one of the city's foremost real estate men, was appointed a member of the Police Commission yesterday by Mayor Woodman. The appointment was unanimously confirmed by the Council.

Mr. Mines was more or less reluctant to accept the position, due to the stress of personal business affairs. Mayor Woodman, however, pointed out that the commission needs a man of wide experience and urged him to assume the burden as a civic duty.

Mr. Mines formerly was president of the Realty Board and still is a leading member of that body. In politics Mr. Mines has always been a straight Republican, and for years served as a member of the County Republican Central Committee and also as a member of the State Republican Executive Committee.

TRAIN NEW NURSES.

The California Hospital has leased two additional houses for dormitories for nurses, and, in accordance with the urgent request of Surgeon-General Gorgas, has admitted a new class of twenty-seven pupil nurses.

Miss Williamson, the superintendent of nurses at the California Hospital, recommends that all young women, high school students, at least until the close of the war, take courses in chemistry and physiology during their last year. This will secure six months' credit in the course in the nurses' training school.

BROKER IS BANKRUPT.

George A. Ledoux, a broker of this city, filed a petition in bankruptcy in the United States District Court yesterday, giving his debts, for the most part of promissory notes and judgments, as $20,-031.42, and his assets, as $200, the value of his personal apparel. The last is exempt under the law. He also scheduled 3999 shares of the Aero Cushion Tire Agency, of San Jose, which, he says, is worthless.

AFFIRMS JUDGMENT.

The State Supreme Court has affirmed the judgment of the local Los Angeles court in favor of the defendant, in the action brought by N. P. Hanton against the Pacific Electric Railway Company, for damages for personal injuries. Hanton had one of his feet run over by a car at Venice as he was trying to board it.

URGES POWER ROW BE ENDED.

City and Private Companies Told to Settle Dispute.

Railroad Commissioner Takes Hand in Difficulties.

New Plant may Result if Controversy is Halted.

That Railroad Commissioner Edgerton told representatives of the city and officials of the Southern California Edison Company that they must reach an immediate agreement and settle the power dispute that has been on between them for years, was stated yesterday by one of the persons who attended the conference in the Union League Building Thursday. He did not approve or reject the proposition made by the city that the Edison Company distribute city power and set a date when the city can take over its lines.

The Edison officials, it is said, were instructed to present a plan for consideration at a meeting which probably will be held here next Wednesday. At Thursday's conference these officials made no proposition, and did not indicate whether they would be agreeable to the proposition submitted by the city. Ever since the power wrangle started the Edison company has stood for a plan that would call for the purchase by the city of their plant, but they wanted the money in a lump, not distributed over a long period. That the Edison company will look with disfavor upon a plan permitting the city to pay $500,000 down, and so much annually, is said to be certain.

Commissioner Edgerton is reported to have asserted that he did not care just how the city and the corporation settle their difference, but he insisted that it be settled at once.

Mayor Woodman believes that if the city and the Edison company reach an agreement that it will be possible to get the War Industries Board to recommend that the government finance the completion of power plant No. 2.

The Southern California Edison Company paid the city $361.54 for power used by it on July 30. Throughout last year it paid in the neighborhood of $2000 per day for power. The Council is trying to find why there is such a discrepancy.

Prisoners Released.

After a full investigation, four Federal prisoners were released from the County Jail yesterday, and for a variety of causes. One had served his term of ninety days in the County Jail and three had been held for investigation.

Giglio Fiorini, the alleged Italian anarchist, was released, and it is understood he will return to his native land and enlist in the Italian army. He was arrested at the harbor several weeks ago by an agent of the Department of Justice, charged with circulating incendiary literature. As Fiorini belonged to one of the Allied nations, and the charge was strenuously denied by the prisoner, he was ordered released.

Chew Dock Sing, charged with failure to register, was released, after his case had been fully investigated by the Department of Justice and the Immigration Department.

Karl F. Kluge, a Long Beach pacifist, who was given a term of ninety days in the County Jail by the Federal Court, with a fine of $200, was released on the payment of the fine and the expiration of his sentence. Kluge is the man who created a disturbance in the beach city during one of the Liberty Loan drives, and sought on several occasions to secure his release by habeas corpus proceedings.

Paul Feldt of San Bernardino was released with a warning that he must hereafter be more guarded in his language. He was taken into custody at San Bernardino. He had been in confinement in jail six weeks. He is a German by birth, 35 years old, and says he has been in the country six years.

RECEPTION TO FREEMAN

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PASADENA, Aug. 2.—I would unite Christendom in a simple prayer for the defeat of Germany by itself, said Dr. Robert Freeman, pastor of the Pasadena Presbyterian Church, speaking at a lawn reception held last night before 800 people gathered to welcome him on his safe return from France, where he has been as director of religious activity for the army Y.M.C.A.

Somehow I feel that the brotherhood of man is coming—I don't know how. I pray for the success of Allied arms; but more than that, I pray for the collapse inside the German lines, for the breakdown of the Central Powers and a new national life to be determined by themselves, he continued in part.

Dr. Freeman told dozens of narratives to illustrate what he called the distinctly human beings to be found in France, he paid great tribute to the Roosevelts and told of having seen Archie in the hospital working his fingers to get back the use of his muscles so that he could get into the fight again.

More Expense for Him.

"Pa, what's a pseudonym?"

"I don't know, son," replied the man whose car is in the repair shop a great deal of the time, "but if it's a thingumbob that belongs to an automobile, I'll have to buy it sooner or later."—[Birmingham Age-Herald.

His Only Objection.

"What's your objection to this motto, 'Work or Fight?'" asked Mr. Rafferty.

"It's too easy," answered Mr. Dolan. "Many and many's the time I've had to do both."—[Washington Star.

TO OPEN CANDY SHOP.

Beautifully-finished Confectionery Store is Located on Broadway.

Tonight at Nos. 613-615 South Broadway, the new store of Petitfils, one of the finest and largest confectionery shops in America, will be opened.

The walls of the lobby are finished in Romanesque design, flanked upon one side by luxurious confectionery display cases and upon the other by a soda and luncheon counter. This opens upon the main dining and refreshment room, executed in the Francis I period. Tapestry panels finish off the walls, while sixteen chandeliers diffuse their soft rays upon the massive beamed ceilings. The seating arrangement has been very cleverly handled by means of long tapestry - upholstered wall seats, and also numerous smaller booths. The woodwork is finished in Circassian walnut.

The Petitfils shop will present the opportunity of enjoying a delightful repast, a light luncheon or a bit of sweets. Their introductory specialty will consist of an old-fashioned chicken dinner on Sundays.

Saturday evening will be devoted exclusively to the opening exhibition of the premises, and Sunday will witness the formal opening for service.

RECORD CLASS WILL SEEK CITIZENSHIP.

BECAUSE OF PRIMARIES THE FILING OF DECLARATIONS IS HALTED HERE.

Under the new Federal law, which suspends the filing of declarations to become American citizens for thirty days previous to the holding of State-wide primaries, all operations in that line in California have been stopped until the 27th inst. The law really applies only to States where aliens may vote on the filing of their declaration of intention to become American citizens, but as it is of universal application it must be enforced here, although California does not allow aliens to vote.

There will be no hearing of aliens desiring to become American citizens until Friday, September 6, but judging from the number of petitions already filed there will be a record-breaking class on that occasion. One of the features of the naturalization situation is the fact that nine out of ten of the applicants filing petitions are subjects of King George.

LOSING FIGHT.

Councilman Seeks to Override Report Against Posting the Ten Commandments.

Councilman Mallard yesterday made a losing fight against the report of the Welfare Committee, which recommended that the petition of the W.C.T.U. for an order directing the posting of the Ten Commandments in public buildings be filed. Of the eight members present, seven voted to sustain the committee.

Mr. Mallard said he believed the city should print a lot of copies of the decalogue and give them to any person desiring to post them in conspicuous places. He said he thought it would be a good idea to have the Ten Commandments on the wall of the Council chamber.

"The members then would know when they break one of the commandments," said Mr. Conaway.

The real reason that the Council refused to accede to the wishes of the W.C.T.U. is that it was not considered good policy now to parade the commandment which says "Thou shalt not kill."

MUST FACE CHARGE IN FEDERAL COURT.

About the angriest man at the Federal Building yesterday was Capt. Ben Denslow of Long Beach, master of the good ship Eagle, against whom a complaint had been filed charging him with having assaulted W. H. Lunsford, when he was informed that an information had been filed against him by Assistant United States District Attorney Moody. This takes the matter out of the hands of United States Commissioner Long, and Capt. Ben will be compelled to make his first appearance in the Federal Court, and plead to the information.

It was a great surprise, to Capt. Denslow, as he had arranged to make his defense before the Commissioner at a hearing booked for this morning. Assistant Attorney Moody stated that the information was filed in the interest of expediency and economy.

IRISH FLOCK TO NAVY, RECRUITERS DISCOVER.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

DUBLIN, July 4.—Lieut. Percy, director of naval recruiting in Ireland, declares that recruiting for the British navy was never more brisk in Ireland than it is at present. There are Irishmen in, every department from the admirals down, and recruiters in the towns and villages are always warmly welcomed.

Dublin has just given a cordial send-off to a number of recruits of the trawler section of the Royal Naval Reserve. This branch appeals particularly to Irish fisher boys, who have experienced in the past few months around the Irish coasts the cruelty with which the German submarine campaign is conducted.

The recruits paraded the streets of Dublin accompanied by bluejackets and marines and the band of the Berkshire Regiment. Among the inscriptions on the banners in the procession were:

"The Germans are sinking Irish ships and murdering Irishmen. Join us and avenge these crimes."

DOESN'T STICK.

Recorder F. H. Lowe, of Glendale, yesterday decided that W. A. S. Douglass, manager of the Diando Film Company, was not guilty of malicious mischief, as charged by a complaint filed by Miss Gertrude Selby, former film actress for the Diando. It was charged that Mr. Douglass had marred and scratched Miss Selby's automobile. The complaining witness also endeavored to show that he had forced his attentions on her.

DEATH EPISTLE IN LOVE SUIT.

Correspondent's Last Letter is Used as Evidence.

"Will be no Broken Hearts in Hereafter," She Wrote.

Ended Life After Papers had been Served in Case.

"There will be no broken hearts in the hereafter," Mrs. Ollie Brown is said to have written Chester A. Bowman, in a farewell note before taking her life. The letter was offered in evidence in Superior Judge Avery's court yesterday in the divorce suit of Mrs. Rosalie E. Bowman against her husband, who is a collector.

Mrs. Brown was named corespondent by Mrs. Bowman in her suit, but ended her life after she had been served with the papers in the case.

The letter, which began with "My Dear Sweetheart," follows, in part:

"Well, I told you when you were here the earlier part of the evening that I was leaving some time tonight or early in the morning. I am leaving this dear old world about 4 o'clock a.m.

"You know where to put your hands on the money, and if you use it anything like you should, it would start you in right for life.

"The one big trouble about you, Chester, you had never gone with a woman like me. You had always gone with the class of woman that, when you had finished with her, the other man looked just as good to her.

"It has been many a day and night since I have had any heart at all, but if the hereafter is anything like I have pictured it, I shall have a long, peaceful rest; there will be no broken hearts there.

"I close once more, sweetheart, with the same sweet kiss and love I had for you just three weeks ago tonight."

The letter was unsigned. Another letter which was found in Mrs. Brown's Grand-avenue apartment after her death was also introduced in evidence.

Widowed Mother of Two Soldiers Loses Home; Needs Apartment Partner.

The Times was appealed to yesterday to assist in the relief of a widowed mother of two soldiers in France. She lost her home through foreclosure proceedings and has until Tuesday to move out. No odium attaches to the holders of the mortgage, as it was foreclosed over a year ago and the widow has been allowed to occupy the place since, although not take roomers, as has been her custom. She has furniture for nine rooms and desires to find someone with unfurnished flats with whom to go into some kind of partnership or to accept the use of the furniture in lieu of rent. Anyone who wishes to assist may address the city editor of The Times and the letter will be forwarded.

BOMB PLOT RUN DOWN.

It Began in Japan, Was Discovered in San Francisco, and Exploded at Santa Monica.

Lack of knowledge of the French language by Department of Justice officials in San Francisco—which city has not the advantage of courses in French such as are being given in Los Angeles under the auspices of The Times—caused the holding up there of a post card sent from Kobe, Japan, to Frank A. Dastarac, a decorator of No. 1520 Second street, Santa Monica, and the investigation of the connection of the latter with a possible bomb plot.

The post card came from another Frenchman and former Santa Monican, Ernest Dedieu, who for seven years conducted a restaurant at the beach city. It began by saying, "Apres avoir faire la bombe" and concluded, "J'ai encore mal aux cheveux." The mention of making a "bombe" at once set the San Francisco officials busy, for Dedieb is now a member of the crew of the Pacific Steamship Columbia and it wasn't desired that any vessel with a name like that should be blown up.

Yesterday Mr. Dastarac explained it. The "bombe" his friend wrote about is an abbreviation for "bombance," which in American is jamboree. And having "mal aux cheveaux" meant that he had an awful head the next day. No arrests were made.

WILL SELL PROPERTY.

The Public Service Commission yesterday adopted a resolution declaring its intention to sell to the highest bidder approximately 2000 acres of city-owned land adjacent to the Monolith cement plant. The minimum price was placed at $55,-000. The board has had an offer of this amount for the property, which does not include the cement mills, railroad trackage or lake bed from which deposits are taken.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SANTA MONICA BEACH, Aug. 2.—"Mother" Lederman of Venice, whose interest in the boys who go forth from the Santa Monica Bay district to serve their country knows no color line, was on hand today with a flag and the usual gifts of tobacco, candy, and magazines, for a contingent of six colored men who left here today at 4:40 p.m. for Camp Lewis.

bread at a certain figure, and that in this agreement they bound themselves to refuse to sell to any retailer who did not maintain the established price. The price allowed the retailer an approximate profit of 20 per cent. It was shown that the price fixed operated to advance the price of bread from what it had been, but it was also shown that there had been a large increase in the price of materials and labor immediately prior to the time that the prices were fixed by the combination. While the defendants sought generally to deny concert of action in the manner charged, there is no contention but that the evidence was sufficient to show the combination and conspiracy—lawful or unlawful.

NO ERROR FOUND.

"The jury had before it the evidence as to the cost of production. The combination and conspiracy shown, the burden was cast upon the defendants to establish that it came within the exception to the statute in that they had combined only to establish a reasonable retail price for their commodity. This burden they assumed.

"The instructions were very explicit under the proviso contained in the statute, to combine together and operate for the purpose of securing a reasonable price for their product, and that if the jury should find that such was the purpose and effect of the combination a verdict of not guilty should be returned.

"We can find no error in the record, and the several judgments against the defendants and the order denying a motion for a new trial are affirmed."

JUDAISM COMPARED WITH AMERICANISM.

BOTH FOUNDED ON ELEMENTS OF DEMOCRACY, RABBI SAYS IN SPEECH.

Americanism and Judahism are two confluent ideas, both established on the same principles of democracy. This was the statement of Nathan Krass, Jewish Rabbi of New York City, who, last night gave an address on "Patriotism" in Temple B'nai B'rith before several hundred leading Jews of Los Angeles.

"When the United States first entered the war the Jews were suspected more than any other race of being pro-German," he said. "Yet the thinking Hebrews of this country realize that Germany has been more bitterly anti-Semitic than any other nation except Russia. In Germany no Jew can hold a rank of an officer in the army; a professorship in any university and serious civil disabilities are forced upon him.

"Out of the 3,000,000 Jews in the United States there are now 80,000 fighting in all branches of the military forces of this country."

Dr. Krass gave a resume of the conditions as this country found them before it entered the great war and severely criticized those who alluded to England as crazed with navalism as Germany is with militarism.

In closing he stated that the American patriotism was the spontaneous kind and productive of lasting results, while the mechanical patriotism of Germany and her allies was bound to fail.

FIVE ARE INDICTED.

The Federal grand jury yesterday returned three indictments for alleged violation of the Espionage Act, against Arnie von Harder, Hugh H. Lemmel and Mike Friel. Bond in the Von Harder case was fixed at $2500; in the other cases $1000 each was recommended.

MILLARD NEW EDITOR OF BAY CITY PAPER.

To succeed Fremont Older, who recently resigned, F. Bailey Millard, newspaper and magazine writer, has accepted a position as managing editor of the San Francisco (Cal.) Bulletin, according to an announcement made here yesterday.

Mr Millard was formerly city editor of the San Francisco Call, news editor of the San Francisco Examiner and editor of the Cosmopolitan and Munsey's magazines. Recently he has been in charge of Orchard and Farm, published in this city by Hearst.

Coping With Choked Railroads

"I EXPECT to face more railroad embargoes this winter, so I am preparing.

"I am going after the markets near my factory.

"I shall try to get 100 per cent. distribution in the markets through newspaper advertising, and then shall prepare to make regular deliveries by motor truck."

This statement was made by a well-known manufacturer of a branded product. He added:

"I want the markets I know I can serve and I shall capture those markets by concentrating my advertising in the local newspapers."

The Bureau of Advertising, American Newspaper Publishers' Association, World Building, New York has on hand data concerning "logical markets" for many industries. It would like to send its new booklet "Everytown" to manufacturers interested.

For beneficial results from advertising in Los Angeles and throughout the Pacific Southwest, advertise in The Los Angeles Times.
